Japs Fail in Attempt To Find Buried Silver

Gen. Wainwright today tells in "This Is My Story" how he and his officers successfully evaded all attempts by the Japs to find the location of the $15,000,000 in silver he had buried at sea near Corregidor, and he witnesses a heart-breaking review of his defeated men.

OUR questioning by Jap intelligence officers began to get sinister on May 14, 1942, at Manila's [illegible] University [illegible] Gen. Masaharu Homma's staff came into my room, armed with aides and an interpreter and briskly began:

"Now! You will tell us where you buried the money." It was not a request. It was a demand.

I told him that we had destroyed $140,000,000 in Philippine government paper money which had been entrusted to us.

"That is a lie; you buried it on Bataan!" he shouted. "Now, where?"

But after a long and repetitious time I convinced him that if there was any money buried on Bataan it was trivial amounts buried by divisional finance officers. He became visibly upset because, I learned later, the Japs were then in the process of returing all U. S. and Philippine government currency and issuing worthless paper money of their own—invasion currency.

Demands Location of Silver

"Well, now, the silver currency," the colonel demanded at length. "This you have buried in Manila Bay. Where?"

"I don't know," I said.

They kept after me for a long time on this. "I don't know . . . I don't know," I finally said with great weariness. "I had nothing to do with its burial. All I know is that it was taken out to sea and dumped. God knows where."

And after some interminable period, the subject was dropped for that day. The new questions were directed

British Rush Aid in Java Fighting; General Is Slain

By The Associated Press

BATAVIA, JAVA, Oct 31—All available British warships and aircraft were reported rushing today to Soerabaja—the Java trouble spot where British Brig A W.F Mallaby was killed while arranging a truce with Indonesian nationalists.

Lt. Gen. Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in the Netherlands East Indies, notified the nationalists in an ultimatum that further unprovoked native attacks upon British troops would be crushed with overpowering force

The report of the dispatching of naval and air reinforcements to Soerabaja was circulated by the Netherlands News Agency Aneta, which said the planes would evacuate European women and children still held at the big naval base—scene during the past few days of bitter clashes between British Indian and Indonesian Nationalist forces

President Soekarno of the "Indonesian Republic" announced his cabinet would hold informal talks tonight with Hubertus J. Van Mook, acting governor general of the East Indies. The Nationalists are seeking freedom from Dutch colonial control of the islands.

Bowles said about 28,000,000 pairs of ration-type shoes will be made this month, as compared with 20,000,000 pairs in August. He predicted production would be up to 28 or 29 million pairs in November and December, and said this would match pre-war demand.

Bowles asked dealers to see that returning servicemen and women are given preference.

Rationing of shoes began on Feb. 8, 1943, and at first was on a basis of three pairs a year. By November of last year military demands had cut the ration to a pair every nine months.

TRUMAN'S WAGE POLICY GETS DIVIDED REACTION

Survey Shows Proposed High School Site Best Available

Facts Presented To Show Objections to Some Parts of School Program Are Unjustified.

Recognizing that objections have been raised in some quarters to the selection of a site near the Harding football stadium as a location for the proposed new Marion high school buildings, backers of the new school program today outlined a number of salient facts to show that the site is the best available.

In the first place the public school system already owns the land in question.

The site is large enough for the purpose It contains 16.7 acres and had been owned by the city schools since 1928. Nationally recognized authorities in school building programs recommend at least 16 acres of land for a senior high school site.

The stadium site was purchased in 1928 when land values were far lower than at present.

To acquire another site nearer the center of the city proper would mean the purchase of a considerable number residential properties through direct purchase from the owners or by court condemnation proceedings. This would be a long and costly procedure. Closing of streets in the area would be required.

Any site nearer the center of the city would necessarily be in a congested area with the added disadvantages of heavy railroad and motor traffic.

Regardless of snap judgments to the contrary, the site is within a few blocks of the center of the city's high school population as established in surveys of two nationally recognized high school building authorities.

In fact the city is indeed lucky to have a suitable site for a high school so near the center of the high school population.

Findings in Survey

School officials recently made a survey of the current school population to learn how far individuals live from the proposed location.

The results were as follows:

168 pupils, or 16.8 per cent, live less than a half mile away.

356 pupils, or 34.95 per cent, live between a half mile and a mile away.

352, or 34 5 per cent, live from a mile to a mile and a half away.

115 or 11.3 per cent, live between a mile and a half and two miles

28 of 2.75 per cent live more than two miles away.

No other site had been suggested that would meet the requirements as well as the proposed location in fact objectors to the location have offered no other sites for consideration, backers of the school program say.

Prevailing Trend

The trend in all progressive cities of Marion's size, or even larger, is to build high schools away from congested areas. The suggested site is in keeping with this trend.

Backers of the school program point to the necessity of DOING SOMETHING NOW to correct the city's inadequate school facilities. Delay will only add to the hardships and confusion brought on by an outgrown system.

Marion is in a good position to grow with the future if the city is quick to grasp the opportunity to prepare for the days ahead. A new high school is essential to city's welfare

In 1941, shortly before the United States entered the war, Marion had 7,500 people gainfully employed. During the war this number was increased to more than 12,000.

With the end of the war some of these 12,000 will quit work, but to take their place will be a majority of the 5,000 Marion county men who served in the armed forces.

These men will be looking for employment—in Marion if it is provided—or they will go elsewhere To find them jobs in Marion will mean that new industries must be brought to the city.

ARMY TO END RULE IN GERMANY JUNE 1

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct 31—President Truman today set next June 1 as a goal for transferring German government from military to civilian hands.

The President did so in expressing his approval of a letter from General Dwight D Eisenhower advocating such a course through agreement with the other three powers participating in the occupation of Germany

Eisenhower, commanding general of American occupation forces, recommended — and the President agreed — that military occupation, as distinguished from military government should be continued as long as it is necessary.

The President also said the administration favored the quickest possible transfer of government in Japan from a military to a civilian status.

STRIKE THREAT FACES NATION'S KEY INDUSTRIES

261,000 Idle as Troubles Brew in Major Fields; Truman Speech Studied.

By The Associated Press

The nation's postwar labor troubles, which threaten to expand to key industries if approved strike votes scheduled are carried out, kept about 261,000 persons away from their jobs today as labor and management studied President Truman's appeal for industrial peace and prosperity.

Mr. Truman, in his wage price policy speech last night, approved reasonable wage increases for the nation's workers to avoid deflation and unemployment and price increases only where considered necessary.

Strike votes have been asked or approved in the automobile, steel, electrical and packing industries, with wages the major issue The CIO United Automobile Workers asked a 30 per cent increase in wages

Demands Rejected

The CIO Steel Workers also have petitioned for a strike vote after rejection of demands for $2 a day pay raises for some 600,000 employes in mills A CIO union also has authorized filing a strike vote petition which would affect 102,000 employes of Westinghouse Electric Corp plants in 25 cities

Yesterday the CIO Packinghouse Workers union asked for a strike vote among 200,000 production workers seeking a 25 cents an hour wage hike.

In the San Francisco bay area today, the strike of some 10,000 AFL and CIO machinists for the second day kept idle about 40,000 other workers in 200 industrial plants.

Milk distributors warned that wounded veterans in the area would be deprived of milk as a result of the strike

Shutdowns of the American Can Co plant, which manufactures all paper milk cartons in the San Francisco bay region, was expected to cut milk deliveries from 40 to 60 per cent within the next two days The strikers are seeking 30 per cent wage increases

Movie Strike Ends

The major development along the labor front was the ending of the 34-weeks old strike of 7,000 employes of Hollywood movie studios The workers were ordered back to their jobs today by Strike Leader Herbert Sorrell who told them AFL officials in Washington had authorized the return. The walkout was the film industry's longest and bloodiest labor dispute

Sorrell said the ALF authorization was a victory for the union he heads, the Conference of Studio Unions, members of which walked out last March 12 in an AFL jurisdictional dispute over the bargaining agent for 77 set decorators He told the strikers their replacements, supplied by the rival International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, are to be displaced.

Shipping operations in Galveston, Tex., were back near normal today as a four-day old strike of AFL Clerks and Checkers was ended and a wage dispute settled

Labor Leaders Hail Address; Congress Split

By The Associated Press

Labor leaders today hailed President Truman's wage-policy address as a "light of hope" for workers and as setting "a plain and simple course for us to follow," while industry leaders generally were non-committal and congressional comment divided mostly along partisan lines.

The President last night approved generally reasonable wage increases to avoid deflation and unemployment, but of price increases only where necessary. He said industry generally could stand some pay increases out of profits but warned labor against making too great demands on employers

WOULD BOOST PAY BUT HOLD DOWN PRICES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—President Truman has laid down as his postwar wage-price policy general approval of reasonable wage increases to avoid deflation and unemployment, but of price increases only where necessary

The President warned labor last night against making too great demands on employers, but said industry generally could stand some pay increases out of profits.

To those employers wanting higher prices before giving workers more pay for shorter hours—to make up for loss in wartime earnings—Mr. Truman said price increases might be entertained in six months.

Industries essential to conversion could ask price increases now if they must have them to pay better wages to recruit necessary manpower.

Names No Figure

The President declined today to suggest a percentage by which he thought wages should be boosted.

He told a news conference the amount of increases would have to be determined in each individual case by collective bargaining.

In a vigorous broadcast appeal for industrial peace and prosperity, Mr. Truman said labor needs higher pay rates with the elimination from 48 to 40-hour work week, and industry can afford to go part way in making up this loss.

But he also amended his August 18 order relaxing controls on wage increases to add three classes of pay boosts for which compensating price increases could be approved by the Stabilization administrator.

List Three Classes

These were:

1. Cases where the percentage increase in average straight time hourly earnings since January 1941 did not equal the percentage increase in the cost of living between January 1941 and September 1945.

2. Instances where increases were necessary to correct inequities in wage rates among plants in the same industry or locality, with due regard to normal competitive relationships.

3. Situations in which increases were necessary to insure full production in an industry designated by the stabilization administrator as essential to reconversion, and in which existing wage rates are inadequate to attract needed manpower.

Government economists say the number of workers who would benefit from adjustment of earnings to living costs is difficult to estimate. The cost of living rise since January 1941 was figured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics at approximately 30 per cent in September. The average straight time hourly earnings increase is placed at about 40 per cent for that month.

The three classes were not expected to affect the bulk of wage earners.

The provisions that employers could seek price relief six months after wage increases, Mr. Truman said, "is something which I am sure will help industry get over this very difficult period of readjustment."

Will Not Be Unreasonable

He said "industry will not be asked by the government to take an unreasonable chance in absorbing such wage increases."

"After a reasonable test period which, save in exceptional cases, will be six months, if the industry has been unable to produce at a fair profit, the entire wage increase will be taken into account

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Oct 31—Whimpering people stumbling up roads to the mountains their faces black—skin hanging like torn sleeves from their arms bare bones people clamping their rent flesh with their own hands people crawling on broken legs

These are the memories of Kaleria Palchikoff, an eye-witness to the atomic bombing of Hiroshima.

The 21-year-old Russian, now a typist for the American armed forces here, was sitting with her her parents and one of her two younger brothers in their Japanese-style house about two miles from the bomb blast center. They joined in the flight to the mountains.

CONGRESS ACTS TO CURB PAC

CIO's Political Action Committee and Illegal Strikes Targets of Move.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 — A double-barreled attempt to curtail activities of CIO's Political Action committee and penalize unions which violate contracts shaped up in the house today.

Some members said amendment of the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes act proposed by the house military committee would minimize effective PAC action in next year's congressional elections, if not put it out of business.

Hit Strike Votes

The military committee started out yesterday to repeal the act's provisions for strike votes under federal supervision after 30 days notice, and government seizure of vital plants tied up by labor disputes.

Before it got through it also approved, by a closed-session vote reported at 15 to 9, amendments which would:

(1) Ban contributions by national banks, or labor organizations to any political convention, primary or general election involving a president, vice president or members of congress, and soliciting, spending, contributing or assessing funds from members "or subordinate affiliates."

(2) Prohibit strikes by unions having no-strike contracts with employers. The penalty would be loss of collective bargaining rights for one year, liability of damages in a civil action, and automatic release of the employer from further compliance with the contract.

The amendments were offered by Rep. Arends of Illinois, house Republican whip.

Murray Protests

CIO President Philip Murray protested the bill would "afford the opportunity to employers to provoke or instigate stoppages and then proceed to mulch the union treasuries through endless losses."

It also, he asserted, "seeks to deprive them of the opportunity of expressing their views on political issues" and hence is unconstitutional.

The committee turned down an amendment which would have prohibited supervisory employes from organizing into collective bargaining units.

Ohio Congressmen Favor Tax Cut Bill

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 — Not a single negative Ohio vote was sounded as the house yesterday approved the conference report on the $5,920,000,000 tax reduction bill.

Fourteen Ohio Republicans in favor of the measure were George H. Bender of Cleveland, Clarence J. Brown of Blanchester, Cliff Clevenger of Bryan, Charles H. Elston and William E. Wheeler Maps Fight on Use of U. S. Troops

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 — In this rough-and-tumble congress today:

1. Senator Burton Wheeler said he would fight a proposal by the State Department for use of U. S. troops by the world security council without specific congressional approval.

2. Law-makers turned to famous old-timers for advice on problems of the new era.

One of the old-timers is Josephus Daniels, 83, called before a senate committee today to support a merger of the War and Navy departments. He was secretary of the Navy in the first World War, later Ambassador to Mexico.

Another is Bernard Baruch, 75, scheduled to talk to a senate committee tomorrow about a proposed National Research foundation.

Holland Plagued by Troubles at Home, Abroad

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Holland, faced by a serious threat to her wealth in Indonesia, is caught between the devil and the deep blue sea in her efforts to rehabilitate an economy almost completely disrupted by war.

To the immediate problem of domestic existence has been added the probability that her long-range economy must be adjusted to a steadily diminishing return from the rich colonies, and the possibility that some day she will lose them entirely.

What she can do to offset this is the problem. Already the suggestion has been made that Holland should take part of Germany to offset her war losses, especially the land despoiled by German flooding. Now there is talk of expanding this idea to give her a more self-contained economy.

Not Too Eager

The Dutch have treated the subject gingerly. Their present border with Germany, for the most part, has stood since the 16th century. It was arbitrary then, but as time passed the peoples on either side became more and more distinct, and the Dutch are wary of a "Sudetenland" which might plague them years from now, even though the example has been set by Poland in eastern Germany.

In considering a strip of Germany as replacement for flooded Polders, the discussion has centered principally around an area from 20 to 50 miles from Aachen to the sea at Wilhelmshaven.

This presumably would include some coal mines just north of Aachen, some textile and paper manufacturing centers west of the Rhine, but would skirt the northern edges of the Rhenish-Westphalian industrial concentrations in the Ruhr and along the Rhine-Ems canal, and would encompass principally agricultural lands.

A glance at this map shows that by a slight extension of this previously discussed area, Holland would come into possession of a smal but rich industrial area where lignite and coal mines, steel and chemical plants, await renovation.

ASHLEY FARMER HURT IN CORN MACHINE

Warren Adams Suffers Serious Injury to Arm.

Special to The Star

ASHLEY, Oct. 31 — Warren Adams, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Adams of southwest of Ashley, suffered severe injury to his right arm Tuesday while operating a corn picker with his brother, William Adams, on the farm of the latter's father-in-law, Guy Crump, west of Ashley. His arm became caught in the rollers of the corn picker and was so wedged in it was impossible to remove it.

Dr. H. W. Davis of Ashley was called and also O. L. Johnson, a garage man, who came with an acetylene torch to cut the machinery. Adams was conscious during the hour and a half it required to free his arm, although sedatives to ease the pain were administered. It was estimated that approximately 70 gallons of water were poured over him during this time, because the heat from the torch was so intense.

His arm was mangled to the elbow. He was taken immediately to Grant hospital in Columbus where today condition is reported to be "fairly good." The doctors also reported they are trying to save his arm. He was accompanied to the hospital by Dr. Davis. Mr. Crump was with him at the time of the accident.

OHIO BISHOP SCORES TRUMAN DRAFT PLAN

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31—Defense of this country lies in "a sense of decency, honor and justice among citizens" and not compulsory military training, believes Bishop Michael J. Ready of the Columbus Diocese.

The bishop told about 1,000 women yesterday at an organization meeting of the Columbus Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, that President Truman's plan for universal peacetime military training for 18-year-olds was 'dangerous to the welfare of the nation."

"The only sure guarantee and defense against war is the abandonment of compulsory conscription in peacetime by all nations, the stressing of the principles of the Atlantic Charter and the San Francisco conference, and the advancement of a sound moral and economic system at home and abroad," he declared.

He asserted "one of the extremely grave faults of the late war was the shocking indoctrination of millions of youth in practices held by decent citizens to be immoral."

China Crash Is Fatal to Famed Ohio Pilot

Higgs, a native of Columbus, was a former lieutenant in the U. S. Army.

The flier was Milton Caniff's inspiration for the character, "Dude Hennick" in the cartoon "Terry and the Pirates." He also was pilot for Generalissimo and Mme. Chiang Kai-shek and the late Wendell Willkie during his visit to China.

"I consider it a serious subject which I want to study thoroughly before making any statements."

R. J. Thomas, president of CIO United Automobile Workers union, said:

"He removed the last excuse of the automobile companies to refuse our proposed 30 per cent payroll increase when he offered relief on prices after a reasonable period of production at ceiling levels if fair profit cannot be earned."

Dave Beck, Seattle, vice president of the AFL Teamsters union: "The President emphasized collective bargaining and over the long run his statements were very sound."

House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts: "It was a very powerful, logical, sound, fighting message."

Taft Disapproves

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio): "The new so-called wage-price policy can only discourage business expansion and kill increased employment but ultimately it can only mean increased prices and inflation."

N. B. Ford, executive vice president of the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut:

"If both management and labor will translate his recommendations for mutual cooperation into sincere efforts at conformance, I have every confidence that national productivity upon which all purchasing power is based can be skyrocketed to an all time record."

Criticism Arouses House Resentment

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—President Truman came to his first major break with Capitol Hill today on the issues of jobless pay liberalization and a "full employment" bill.

His sharp criticism of congress in his wage-price address for failure to pass these administration measures brought only signs of resentment.

Chairman Manasco (D-Ala) of the house expenditures committee said "I am afraid the President's statement hurt the chances of getting even a compromise 'full employment' bill. The members resent being pressured."

A spot check of the house ways and means committee indicated the President's jobless pay liberalization bill—up to $25 a week for 26 weeks—will stay on the shelf where the committee put it.

There were indications congress may risk the threat of a veto for a $52,000,000,000 cutback of appropriations and money authorizations by retaining a house amendment returning the U. S. Employment Service offices to state control and operation immediately.

Mr. Truman asserted in his broadcast last night:

"Several months ago I urged the congress to amend the unemployment compensation law so as to help workers through the difficult months of unemployment until reconversion could be effected. The congress has not yet passed the legislation.

"The responsibility for that is solely up to congress—and specifically I mean the ways and means committee of the house of representatives. I hope that this committee will fulfill its obligation to the people of the nation, and will give the members of the house an early chance to vote on this important legislation. • • •"

STOCKHOLDERS BLOCK C. & O. MERGER PLANS

900-Million-Dollar Rail Empire Proposal Fades.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31—Plans for a $900,000,000 railroad empire embracing the Chesapeake & Ohio, Nickel Plate, Pere Marquette and Wheeling & Lake Erie roads were discarded today.

Chesapeake directors yesterday withdrew an offer to Wheeling & Lake Erie and Nickel Plate stockholders for consolidation on an exchange of stock basis because of opposition among holders of Nickel Plate preferred.

The directors said their action followed receipt of a letter from President John W. Davin of Nickel Plate which declared a "formidable" group of shareholders announced they would fight the consolidation, even in court if necessary."

The Chesapeake directors declared the block of stock represented by the Nickel Plate group could "effectively defeat the plan even if the vast majority of the remaining stockholders of the Nickel Plate favor it."

The board also declared elimination of the Nickel Plate from the proposed plan "left the stsaus of the Wheeling & Lake Erie uncertain at this time because the Nickel Plate, which owns a 33 per cent interest in the Wheeling, has indicated a desire to negotiate for the purchase of Chesapeake & Ohio's holdings of Wheeling stock."

The Chesapeake directors said they planned to renew their offer to merge or consolidate with the Pere Marquette.

"I don't see how anybody as stupid as you can be an aide to ...neral! You don't know anything."

There were idle periods when we were left to our own devices, to our own thoughts of our home on the other side of the ...n to thoughts of the men and ... still on Corregidor whose ...on was made so terribly precarious by the determination of a ...r hotheads on Negros.

The Daily Routine

My roommate, Beebe, and I, as ...l as Pugh, Dooley, Carroll and ...staff men who drifted back ...m their surrender appeal mis... ...n got up each morning at 6:30 ...a. m. and were served with a modest breakfast, which so soon later would have looked like a king's feast.

After breakfast we were allowed to go up on the roof of the University club and walk around for 30 minutes. When we were returned we could read or play cards, if there were no questioning. The club's old library had been virtually untouched by war, but it was hard to concentrate on books. The estate of captivity simply saturated an American's system, driving out almost all other thoughts and coloring such thoughts as to come through the dismal realization that you are caged.

One day near the end of the last organized resistance in the Philippines we heard a commotion in the street outside the University club. Beebe and I rushed to our windows on the second floor and there below us we saw a long column of ragged Americans trudging down Dewey Boulevard.

Try to Show Superiority

With a pang I recognized the men. They were the men of Corregidor being marched through the streets in their wretched condition to prove to the silent thousands of natives lining the street that the Jap conquerors were superior in every way.

It was a heartbreaking spectacle, this strange review of my troops. I learned that they were being led to Bilibid Prison, where the Americans were separated from the Filipinos and sent to Cabanatuan while the Filipinos went to O'Donnell.

Among the marchers, with his chin in the air, was chaplain John K. Borneman, a valiant soldier of God and the United States. Col. Borneman was to report to me later that he had to witness 12 murders of U. S. Army officers at Cabanatuan, 12 murders which followed sadistic beatings lasting 24 hours.

Chaplain Beaten

Col. Borneman also reported to me that another chaplain, Col. Alfred C. Oliver, was beaten pitilessly for days. They broke Col. Oliver's neck eventually, but somehow he survived. He must go through the rest of his life with his head trussed in a high leather collar.

"OUR FOOD STUCK IN OUR THROATS": When Gen. Wainwright in today's chapter, tells of pleading for aid to prisoners of war like these men shown carrying some of their wounded who were too weak to march. But the message he sent to Gen. Homma's headquarters was never delivered. (International, from Tokyo propaganda film).

Our food stuck in our throats as Gen. Francisco's whispered that day we saw the men of Corregidor march past our windows. I addressed a letter to Gen. Homma's headquarters. With these in mind and the memories of Gen. Francisco's whispered revelations about Camp O'Donnell, In the letter I begged Homma to send a radio to President Roosevelt, in my name, asking that a ship be dispatched at once to the Philippines with food, clothing and medical supplies for American and Filipino prisoners of war. In the letter I told Homma that I had been informed reliably that Americans and Filipinos were dying at the rate of 300 a day at O'Donnell from malnutrition and for want of proper medical care and that by the end of the year every man in that camp would be dead.

I gave the letter to Lieut. Ura... mura, and every day for many days after that I asked him if he had heard from Homma. But all he would say was an infuriating "It is under consideration." In time I knew with a feeling of utter helplessness that the message would never be sent.

(TOMORROW: Gen. Wainwright is moved to Taiho Prison, and the brutality of the Japs is stepped up.)

150,000 Due at Cleveland for Two Top Grid Battles

Navy-Notre Dame Clash Rated No. 1 in Nation; Massillon Tackles Cathedral Latin.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31—Some 150,000 gridiron fans are expected to pour into Cleveland's Municipal stadium this week-end to watch a pigskin program featuring four undefeated teams.

The top collegiate battle of the week, Notre Dame vs. Navy, and Ohio's high school classic, Massillon vs. Cleveland Cathedral Latin, will be the magnets drawing the huge crowds.

All-America Bob Jenkins may return to the Navy lineup as the Irish and the Middies—rated No 1 and No 3 in the country—cavort before an expected 90,000 rooters Saturday afternoon.

The scholastic headliner between Cathedral Latin and the Massillon Tigers under the stadium lights Friday night probably will outdraw all high school contests and most collegiate encounters in the country. An estimated 60,000 northeastern Ohio rooters will be there.

Notre Dame, trounced 32 to 13 by a powerful 1944 Navy squad, and Massillon, upset 6 to 0 by an undefeated Latin eleven last year, are favored by the Friday morning quarterbacks to gain vengeance.

The Irish and Middies take perfect records into their contest while the powerful Latin High schoolers will pit a 20-game winning streak against thrice-tied Massillon.

Reservations for hotel rooms will be as scarce as 50-yard line tickets for the sold-out collegiate battle.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—A group of Southern California sportsmen has leased the Hollywood Park and Santa Anita racetracks to hold an annual harness racing meet, starting next year. They plan to run in May and early June, using the tracks in alternate years, and will ask for Grand Circuit dates. The "Grand" really will be grand, with 25 days in California before the eastern season starts. The baseball gang suffered a real loss Monday with the death of Bill Kaliska.

One Hit, No Error

When the 18th Infantry moved into Windsheim, Germany, it took over a small gymnasium and some of the soldiers began boxing. Some German youngsters gathered to watch and Sgt. Bert Williams, North Dakota welter who used to fight in the Chicago Golden Gloves tourneys, invited them to try the sport. Bert soon had classes organized for six-year-old kids up to discharged Nazi soldiers..."Many of my buddies think my time is being wasted on the German kids," Williams explained, "but I taught some of them baseball and the results are already apparent."

Forest Gridders To Invade Ada Friday

Forest High will meet the Ada High Bull Dogs Friday afternoon on the latter's field for the final game of the season. Both teams have won two games each during the season. On past records Ada has the edge. Ada defeated Kenton 7 to 0 while Kenton deefated Forest 26 to 14. Last week Forest won over Pandora 19 to 13 and Ada defeated North Baltimore 6 to 0. ASKS OLYMPICS IN OHIO

ZANESVILLE, O., Oct. 31 — Ed J. Barker, secretary of the Ohio State Association of Track Coaches, said yesterday he had written Gov. Lausche suggesting that he use his influence to bring the 1948 Olympic games, if revived then, to the Ohio State university stadium.

WIDDOES DRILLS OHIO FOR WILDCAT CLASH; LINEUP IS SHIFTED

Daugherty, Star in Last Two Games, Likely To Start; Amling, Thomas Ill.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31 — Coach Carroll Widdoes had his Ohio State football team practice offensive and defensive play yesterday as he prepared his charges for the arrival of the Northwestern Wildcats Saturday.

Missing the scrimmage were Guard Warren Amling and Tackle Russ Thomas, both excused because of stomach disorders. Their conditions aren't serious.

Also out of the first string lineup was Paul Sarringhaus who had been suffering from a bruised shoulder for the past two weeks. Hal Daugherty and Jerry Krall alternated at the left half post.

"I think so," was Widdoes' answer to whether Daugherty would start the game Saturday. He has been a standout in the past two Buck games.

Jack Redd moved into Amling's right guard post and Sam Winters took over Thomas' right tackle spot.

Max Schnittker, Ohio's placekicker, worked out in scrimmage but Widdoes said he would not gamble on losing Schnittker's kicking talents by using him for line play in the Northwestern game. Schnittker injured his knee three weeks ago.

Seeing first team action yesterday for the first time was Jim Crane of Columbus who was slated to be a regular with the Iowa Seahawks before they disbanded for the season. He subbed for End Don Steinberg.

Carey Set To Repel Kenton Team Friday

Special to The Star

CAREY—After a three day rest the Blue Devils reported to Coach Doc Reister in good shape for their contest with Kenton here Friday night. The Devils are spending the week sharpening their attack for the Kenton squad. The team will be intact for the game Friday except for the absence of its stellar guard, Triano.

Kenton is favored over the light Blue Devils who will go into the game outweighed 10 pounds to the man. The Kenton squad has been improving week by week.

The Blue Devils have received little notice in going seven games undefeated and untied, scoring 198 points to their opponents 12. This scrappy team that averages 155 pounds on the line and 150 pounds in the backfield has consistently outplayed its much heavier opponents.

O. N. U. GAME AT KENTON

Penn Guard Picked "Lineman of Week"

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 — Penn lost the game to Navy but Joe Dickerson, a Quaker guard, showed enough ability to be named The Associated Press' "Lineman of the Week" for his brilliant defensive play.

Recovering four of seven Middie fumbles and disrupting Navy play by frequent sorties into their backfield, Dickerson was one of the chief reasons why the Midshipmen had to take to the air to win in the last 25 seconds.

Little Butterfly Waits Again, This Time for Yank Prisoner

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO—"Little Miss Butterfly" knows that if she faithfully carries out his wishes she will somehow, sometime see again the American prisoner of war who was her friend.

So she is turning down a job with the American Army and going back to school to prepare herself for that happy day of reunion.

She was one of 400 Japanese girls who stood in line last week for hours before the Hattori building, waiting to be interviewed for a job as salesgirl in an Army post exchange. In her hand she clutched an advertisement from a Japanese newspaper:

Hal Boyle

"Help wanted. Finer type of Japanese girls, preferably high school graduates who speak and understand English, to be salesgirls in an American Army exchange. Apply Hattori building."

There were girls of all kinds in that long line. Bold girls, shy girls, quiet girls, waitresses, factory workers, stenographers, home girls and young widows who had lost husbands and parents in American bombings. The widows had come now to apply for the job of handing out candy bars and coffee to soldiers of a nation that had left them without a provider. But that irony had no meaning for them. The jobs would pay $13 to $20 a month—and that will spell the difference between life and death in Tokyo this winter.

School Girls There

There were school-girls in that line, too, and one of them was "Little Miss Butterfly." When she came to be interviewed by Lt. A. Joel Grossbart, Newark, N. J., he looked at her keenly.

He noticed that her amber skin glowed from scrubbing. He saw that her fingernails were clean, and that her worn clothes were neat. She looked modest and intelligent.

When he asked her if she spoke English she did not reply as many girls do who tried to bluff a way past the language barrier—"Yes, preese, I speak English little." She said simply, "Yes, sir."

"All right, you'll do," said Grossbart; "please report back to me tomorrow."

She bowed and left. Other girls hired by the lieutenant reported for duty as ordered, but "Little Miss Butterfly" did not show up.

Gives Own Reasons

Instead Grossbar received this quaint letter of explanation from her:

"Lieutenant I make bold to write to you. Yesterday I had the honor of seeing you. To tell the truth I ate humble pie for a living and responded to the advertisement. But you deigned to say 'Come again on Thursday morning' to me.

"After I came home I thought seriously of the matter and had a dream last night.

"In the dream he appeared and rebuked me: 'You must not leave school half way. You must have a lofty ideal,' and vanished.

"He, who is my most reliable and respectable friend in my life. He was a prisoner in war, but as a human being he was a great man. We were good friends. But after the end of the war he must come back to the United States. At parting gripping my hand he said: 'After your graduation you must complete your education in America. I shall look upon you from the opposite coast of the Pacific ocean.' So he said, and left Japan.

"I became aware of my mistake, his voice still rings in my ears. I am sorry I am against his wishes. I come back to school and, I hope, can get over the difficult days with a great bravery which he had. Never, please, do not take it amiss."

Job Is Waiting.

Lieutenant Grossbart read her letter several times.

"Well," he said, finally, "if little Miss Butterfly ever changes her mind—and I hope nothing happens to make her want to change it—she can always have a job as long as the American Army is here."

STATE ASSOCIATION BANS INDEPENDENT POST SEASON GAMES

OHSAA Ruling Hits Proposed Toledo Tilt; Several Others Suggested.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31—The word went out again today from Harold W. Emswiler, commissioner of the Ohio High School Athletic association, that the OHSAA does not permit all-star or post season football games unless they are under high school supervision.

Emswiler said he had received several inquiries recently from independent groups desiring to promote such games.

"In most instances they are for very worthy causes," Emswiler said, but our rules prohibit such contests unless the schools themselves put them on."

Such a game was suggested last night by Toledo Waite High school through its coach, Jack Mollenkopf, who challenged the winner of the Massillon-Cleveland Cathedral Latin game Friday night.

Among the post season game proposals made by outside groups, Emswiler said, was one for a tilt to match an outstanding team from the northern part of the state and one from the southern half.

The commissioner also disclosed that there would be district swimming meets this season in all districts except the eastern and southeastern. There have been no district swimming meets since 1942.

Another OHSAA decision was that all parochial and exempted village schools in the northwest district must compete in separate tournaments this season to determine their representatives in the district high school basketball tournaments. Similar tournaments were held in that district last season except that Hicksville was not required to compete because of its location and Norwalk St. Joseph was left out because it competed in the Huron county tournament.

A decision to extend all regional and both state basketball tournaments over two days was prompted in part, it was learned, from an instance in last year's class "A" final tournament in which action had to be halted twice because of a "Charley horse" suffered by Gene Dudley of the championship Bellevue team.

Emswiler said the OHSAA felt boys should not be required to play two games in one day. Since the advent of the four-team final tournaments, they have been run off in one day and most regional events have been one-day affairs.

Oldtimers Baugh and Hutson Continue To Top Pro Gridders

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 — It's fortunate for the National Football league generally that Washington's Slingin' Sammy Baugh and Green Bay's sticky-fingered Don Hutson are not on the same team.

Time which usually takes a quick toll in this sport of bone breaks and twisted knees has only served to enhance the greatness of Baugh and Hutson, who are making their specialties a one-man show.

As the Packers trimmed the Chicago Cardinals last Sunday the oft "retired," but never benched Hutson increased his scoring and pass receiving leads. Green Bay's phantom end tallied 21 points for a total of 75, while seven more catches boosted his five-game bag to 29.

Baugh, on the other hand connected 20 times in 24 pass attempts as Washington downed the New York Giants. That gave the Redskin sharpshooter a four-game record of 61 completions in 88 tosses with only one interception—a mark of .694 under the league's inverse grading system.

Official league statistics also showed that Washington's star hitting Frank Akins widened his ground-gaining lead over runner-up Steve Van Buren of Philadelphia. Akins ripped the Giant line for 48 yards for a four-game aggregate of 338 yards, while Van Buren was held to 22 yards by Cleveland, giving him 276 yards, also in four games.

Washington's Steve Bagarus moved from third to first place among punt handlers with a total of 114 yards on 10 returns, an average of 11.4. Johnny Martin of Brooklyn-Boston climbed from fourth to first in kickoff returns, coming back 193 yards on eight tries for a 24.1 average.

Hutson, who breaks a league record nearly every time he steps on the field, has scored nine touchdowns and 21 extra points for his 75 markers. Eight of his touchdowns have been on pass receptions. By way of comparison among the league aerial grabbers, Hutson's 29 catches have been good for 633 yards, while second-place Jim Benton of Cleveland has caught 17 for 317.

ate Inspector Reports Need of High School Improvements

Larger, Modern Building for Harding Outside Congested District; Central and Vernon Called Inadequate.

V. Shelton, supervisor of high schools for the state department of education, has filed a report with City School Superintendent E. Holt on the results of his recent inspection of three school buildings.

Buildings inspected were Harding High school and Central Heights Junior high school.

This report comes at a time the city is nearing the close of a campaign not only to secure a new high school but to modernize elementary buildings through the Jobs and Progress program.

From Dr. Shelton's report:

HARDING HIGH SCHOOL

"The school is overcrowded and inadequate for the present enrollment for the program of studies being and should be offered. Better provision should be made for the library, commercial, industrial arts, music, dramatization, assembly activities and gymnasium classes. An auditorium and a cafeteria are essential to a good high school.

"The school needs an adequate site. A new High School building should be erected outside of the more congested central business district. We believe that the citizens of Marion favor the proposed building program and are therefore urging the Harding Senior High School on the 1st of first grade schools approved by this Department."

CENTRAL JR. HIGH SCHOOL

"The building is in a very unsatisfactory location because of its nearness to railways and the central business district. It is old and lacks most of the features considered essential for offering a strong junior high school program. It should be replaced by a new sanitary, fireproof building located in a more quiet and less congested area. This should be done as soon as possible."

VERNON JR. HIGH SCHOOL

"The building was not planned for use as a junior high school. It is a very well constructed elementary school building.

Satisfactory rooms and equipment are lacking for industrial arts, home economics, physical and health education, art, music, assemblies, offices and cafeteria. A new well-planned building should be erected. It is hoped that such a building may be constructed in the near future."

system to educate the children their employes.

The facilities offered by the Harding High school have outgrown for a number of years.

The building is too small. The grounds lack space for enlargement to meet present day needs.

There is no adequate room for a gymnasium, the lack of which has handicapped Harding basketball teams for years. Neither is there adequate room for an auditorium or school cafeteria.

Backers of the school program are aware that there are some who object to the proposed transfer of Harding High school to the city rather than to use it for a senior high school.

They are of the opinion that the main objections to the Harding building as a senior high school apply to its use as a junior high school.

Traffic Dangerous

The building is in the center of the business district, with the result that with the dismissal of school at noon and in the evening pupils are thrown into a congested traffic area. The hazard of crossing busy streets is added to the undesirable feature of throwing young junior high pupils into downtown hangout spots.

The proposed new junior high school on the North State street school grounds would give Marion a junior high school north of the east-west railroad tracks for the first time.

In summing up the objections to Harding as a junior high school, supporters of the proposed program declare that:

A junior high school needs a gymnasium and auditorium. Neither is available.

Space is lacking for an adequate playground for young pupils.

The building is in a noisy district, facing heavily traveled streets.

The proposed new junior high on North State street will have none of the objections found with the Harding building.

Other Schools Included

Supporters of the school program today reminded Marion residents that the project includes more than the construction of new senior and junior high schools. Also included are community rooms for Olney, Oak and Silver street grade buildings and modernizing of the electric lighting systems and service facilities in other schools where needed.

The proposed new high school will give the city everything it needs in connection with a senior school.

For example it will provide:

An auditorium seating 2,000 for school activities and civic functions.

A gymnasium accommodating 4,000 for basketball games.

A cafeteria to provide warm, nutritious and well balanced lunches at a nominal cost for those who desire them.

A school away from the noise and congestion of the downtown area.

A high school building close to the athletic field—an important feature in any high school athletic system.

Bus Service Assured

Bus service will be available to the proposed school. Ray Maag, general manager of the Marion Rapid Transit Co., has agreed to provide adequate service for pupils desiring it.

It is a matter of fact that with cafeteria facilities in the proposed school, pupils will be required to travel less distance than they do now in attending Harding. By going home for lunch at noon pupils are required to make two round trips a day to Harding. At the proposed building one trip daily will be sufficient by eating lunch at the cafeteria.

Cafeteria Prices Low

In other schools having cafeterias a nourishing lunch can be obtained at from 15 to 20 cents.

Finally, sponsors of the selected location for the new school realize that the building will be a greater distance from some sections of the city than is Harding. But, they point out that a school building can't be put in everybody's back yard.

The building must be put somewhere and, the sponsors insist, the location chosen is the best available.

ROTARY HEARS TALK BY STATE OFFICIAL

Narcotic Education Discussed by Howard E. Hamlin.

Howard E. Hamlin of Columbus, supervisor of health and narcotic education for the state department of education, was guest speaker at the weekly Rotary club luncheon at Hotel Harding Tuesday.

Mr. Hamlin, whose subject was "Ohio's School Program in Narcotic Education," has taught in a number of universities and has a wide experience in this and related fields.

He reported that large quantities of the marijuana plant have been found growing in Lorain county and said influx of Mexican labor has aggravated the country's marijuana problem.

Mr. Hamlin advocated swimming pools and recreational programs help to solve youth problems.

Visiting Rotarians were Charles Kirk of Findlay, and James Mann of Youngstown. Other guests at the meeting were William Foster of Cleveland, William Scott of Columbus, Clarence Snyder of Trenton, N. J., former resident of Marion, William C. Doody of Cleveland and Lewis E. Michel and O. P. Linn of Marion.

Miss Janet Stein attended as guest reportorial representative of the Harding High school journalism class.

Mr. Hamlin was introduced to his audience by Wilson B. Tway.

CIVIC PROGRAM

ployed. The whole program boils down to this idea," he said.

Mr. Roberts recalled the days in the 1930's when Marion missed out of numerous opportunities to obtain federal aid through public works programs for city improvement.

"We are at the crossroads in Marion now, and must prepare for the future," he declared.

He cited the city's position in the highly competitive field of attracting industries that are moving away from larger centers of population. "We must have something to offer to bring them here," he said.

Inspection Report Read

Mr. Holt read a report from the state department of education on a survey made of Harding High school and Central and Vernon Heights junior high schools.

The state school officials were critical of all three buildings. The Vernon building, however, was found inadequate only for use as a junior high school, a purpose for which it was not planned.

Because the city had a program for improving the school situation the examiners continued approval of Harding High school as a first class school for another year, Mr. Holt pointed out.

Mr. Holt declared it was up to the city at the Tuesday election whether we would continue to consign "our children to unsafe buildings or give them the best we can provide. We dare not fail to do the very best we can for our boys and girls."

Views of Serviceman

Captain Pickerel who as a squadron commander in the 20th air force led many Superfort raids on Japan from Saipan, spoke on the serviceman's attitude toward the Jobs and Progress program.

"Men who went into the armed forces from Marion look on the city as their home and they want to come back here to live," he said.

"But in their travels to all parts of this country they have found that other cities, many smaller than Marion, have things that we do not have here. The things we are after in this campaign will make Marion a better place to live," he said.

Capt. Pickerel recalled his days as a Harding High school athlete nearly 15 years ago when practically every city in the N.C.O. athletic league had better facilities than Marion. He pointed out that while the school now has a football field it still lacks a place to play basketball.

Mr. Torrance gave a report on the house-to-house canvass in behalf of the program.

Frank Zuck Retires Following Long Service As Star Employe

An association of more than two decades with The Marion Star came to an end today with the retirement of Frank Zuck of 373 Windsor street, as a member of the accounting department staff.

Joining The Star staff on July 25, 1923, Mr. Zuck was a solicitor in the circulation department for a number of years. Shortly after the outbreak of World War II he became a collector in the accounting department.

In his years as a solicitor Mr. Zuck traveled hundreds of miles and formed a large circle of friends and acquaintances. His territory included Marion and the six adjoining counties. In the years following World War I, he recalls, when finances began to tighten, he frequently carried on a business of bartering and his car often took on the appearance of a huckster wagon, as he more than once took chickens, eggs and other provender in exchange for subscriptions to The Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Zuck celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sept. 17, 1940. Their marriage took place at the home of the latter's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Jacob Hecker and they went to housekeeping in their present home. Mr. Zuck, who celebrated his 75th birthday anniversary on Feb. 11, odd jobs," he said.

Marion Catholic Women Help Organize Diocesan Council

Members of Catholic women's groups of Marion and adjoining communities joined others in the Columbus diocese for the organization of a Diocesan Council of Catholic Women Tuesday at Columbus. More than 1,000 women attended the meeting called by Bishop Michael J. Ready to effect a diocesan organization. Organization of a Western Deanery council was effected here early last week and last Thursday a local council was organized.

Yesterday's meeting opened with a pontifical mass at St. Joseph's cathedral in which Bishop Karl J. Alter of Toledo preached and Bishop Ready was the celebrant. The mass was sung by the choir of the seminary of St. Charles Borromeo. More than 100 priests and bishops attended and Rev. William J. Spickerman, pastor of St. Mary church, served as a deacon of honor.

Luncheon Meeting Held

A business session followed a luncheon at the Neil House. Attending the luncheon from here were Rev. Spickelman, Mrs. J. T. McNamara, Mrs. Paul Leser, Mrs. George Kelly, Mrs. Harold Monnette, Mrs. Albert Merkle and Mrs. H. H. Cooper. Approximately 25 women from the parish attended the meeting.

Presiding for the luncheon was Miss Mariam Swickard of Columbus, president of Central deanery, and speakers included Frazier Reams, state welfare director and Miss Agnes K. Quinlan, supervisor of the Catholic Welfare Bureau, Columbus. Miss Quinlan talked on "Effective Volunteer Aid in Catholic Charities." Mr. Reams told of the work of his department.

Officers Named

At the afternoon session Bishop Ready told of the program for the Columbus council and named the diocesan officers. The officers are Mrs. S. L. Hall, president; Mrs. Anna Marie Cline, secretary and Mrs. Frank Vogel, treasurer. Speakers included Miss Ruth Craven, executive secretary of the national council, Miss Margaret Kelly, field executive; Rev. Edgar Schmiedeler of the Benedictine Order, director of the national council's family life bureau; Rev. George M. Higgins, assistant director, N. C. W. A. social action department and Miss Catherine Schaefer of the social action department. Bishop Ready's talk closed the program.

Mrs. McNamara heads the council of the Western Deanery and officers of the local council are Mrs. H. H. Cooper, president, Mrs. Harold Monnettt, secretary and Mrs. Henry Yochem, treasurer. The deanery council includes parishes in Hardin, Marion, Morrow, Union, Delaware and Madison counties.

ONE GROUP FORMED BY CHURCH WOMEN

Meeting Is Held by St. Paul Episcopal Members.

Women's groups of St. Paul Episcopal church united to form one organization at a meeting held Tuesday at the parish house. All women of the church are included in the new organization which will be known as The Women of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

A board meeting at 10:45 a. m. was followed by a communion service in the chapel conducted by the rector, Rev. Carter T. Crenshaw. This was followed by a luncheon and business session. The following officers, department and committee chairmen were named:

Mrs. Grant F. Mouser, Jr., president; Mrs. Paul J. Menzer, vice president; Mrs. Fred Hoch, secretary; Mrs. H. A. Ammann, treasurer; Mrs. Claire T. Crenshaw, chairman of the department of missions; Mrs. A. T. Busick, Christian education; Mrs. F. W. Rea, Christian social relations; Mrs. W. H. Reed, promotion; Mrs. H. A. Ammann, finance; Mrs. J. A. Burgin, united thanksoffering treasurer; Mrs. O. S. Rapp, supply secretary; Mrs. George F. Frank, church periodical club secretary; Mrs. F. R. Moore, chairman of the altar committee; Mrs. Oliver Hamilton, parochial committee; Mrs. Albert V. Witt, devotional. Mrs. Mouser will serve as president of all chapters.

Meetings will be held once a month and the individual groups will serve as hostesses. Group meetings will be held at other times during the month. Two of the monthly meetings will be luncheon gatherings and a third meeting will be held in the evening. The meetings will be held from September through May.

JAPAN

He did not disclose the contents of the reply.

Failure of Russia so far to send a representative to the Far Eastern meeting here had constituted a stumbling block in American-Soviet relations. The participating governments met for the first time yesterday, but adjourned immediately for a week evidently to give Russia further opportunity to come in for the sessions.

Russian, Chinese and British Empire troops soon may take their place alongside American forces in the occupation of Japan.

American officials have been discussing for some weeks the best way to arrange for joint occupation and it is understood General MacArthur has been kept informed and his views taken into account.

Some authorities here say the solution may be to assign the forces separate zones.

The biggest immediate need is an acceptable compromise on joint control machinery. The United States, Britain and China are reported near agreement with Russia on this.

GRAIN FUTURES FIRM ON CHICAGO MARKET

Hope of Future Price Increases Inspires Revival After Early Slowness.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—Utilities, rails and assorted industrials led the stock market on an upswing today after considerable early hesitancy.

The president's wage-price policy, at first, was interpreted as somewhat indecisive because a percentage boost was omitted. Financial opinion then veered to the idea pay increases ultimately would bring price raises despite the administration decree to "hold the line." This thought inspired a revival of bidding.

Dealings slowed after a lively sprint. Scattered losers were in evidence near the fourth hour but gains of fractions to two points or so predominated.

At eight-year peaks were Electric Power & Light, United Corp., Columbia Gas, American Power & Light, Public Service of N. J., Standard Gas $4 preferred and Eastman Kodak. Favored were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Nickel Plate common, Southern Railway, North American, Douglas Aircraft and American Water Works. Laggards included American Telephone, Johns-Manville, Nickel Plate preferred, Chesapeake & Ohio, Standard Oil (NJ), Allied Chemical and American Can.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

THE THREE MEN were laughing as they came through the doorway, and I saw that Georges' natural resiliency, aided by the tact of Jack and Dicky, had succeeded in banishing for the moment the somber uncertainty with which he must be contemplating this beginning of his Odyssey, which might prove to be a tragic one.

"What do you think of our job, Dad?" Dicky asked. "Isn't he one sweil cabellero?"

"He's something special, all right," my father agreed, looking at Georges who was even more striking than Jack had been, with his white goatee and mustachios, and his snowy hair.

"I am sure nobody will ever dream that you are not the same man who came in here today," he said. "But sit down. Gus isn't due for nearly five minutes. I shall be notified as soon as he comes."

"Hold your breath when you sit down, Fellah!" Jack admonished. If you split those seams, I'll garrote you!"

"I don't intend to breathe again until I get to the hideaway," Georges replied, gingerly seating himself.

Then he looked around the room.

"The boys are not here," he said in a disappointed tone, but I was mean enough to guess that he was missing someone else beside Junior and Roderick.

Boys At Mary's

"I'm sorry," I said perfunctorily, "but Mary and Noel took them, with Faith and their grandmother, down to their own partment for a little visit. Madam Graham hasn't been at her granddaughter's apartment for a long time, and Mary has many things to show her."

"Oh, of course," he said. "But I'm so sorry to miss the boys. They're such interesting chaps. There's no chance of their coming back up here before I go?"

"None whatever," I said with decision, and an impish impulse to add: "Nor of Mary either."

But I pushed the impulse back imperatively.

"Will you say good-bye to them for me" he asked next, "and to little Faith, Madam Graham, and, of course, Noel and Mary?"

"I'll convey your message to all of them," I said formally, and did not dare to meet Katharine's eyes, for I knew the expression in them would set my risibles in motion.

"Thank you," he said, as formally, but I noticed that his eyes kept going to the outer door, and knew that he was hoping against hope Mary might come through it.

With a little involuntary shrug of my shoulders I gave up trying to find out what made him tick, as Mary would say. If his message to Mary, and the little scene I had witnessed in the Veritzen sitting room meant anything, he was even now Olina's betrothed lover. Yet I was sure that he would give, if not his right arm, at least a finger or two from it, for another glimpse of Mary's winsome face.

He did not speak again, and the rest of us were silent also in one of those embarrassing pauses where there is nothing anyone can say which will not sound strained or insane.

All Glad

And I think all were as glad as I was when the telephone shrilled, and my father, answering it, said, "Yes, thank you, Adams. Will you please come up at once?"

So they were not to leave unguarded! I knew that, as always, my father was leaving nothing to chance, but the prescience of danger made my nerve ends tingle. However, I did not dare even to whisper a warning to my father to be careful of himself. At times like these, the Chief always "walked by himself."

My father did not sit down again, and with a sense of good-byes to be said, we all rose except, of course, Dicky. Georges said good-bye to him first, then to Jack, and next, bent over Katharine's hand, kissing it in his inevitable foreign fashion.

Then he came over to me, lingering over his kissing of my hand in a fashion that infuriated me, even though I knew he was doing it to cover an insistent murmur: "Please do not forget my messages to Mary. Both of them."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M. D.

Penicillin

WHILE penicillin has been found extremely useful in the treatment of a variety of infections, up to the present it has not been found particularly satisfactory by most investigators in the treatment of such lung conditions as bronchiectasis and lung abscess produced by germs which penicillin will attack.

However, Doctor Alvan L. Barach and his co-workers of Columbia university have devised a method for getting the penicillin directly into the lungs. They have found the method extremely useful in the treatment of various types of lung diseases such as bronchiectasis.

A penicillin mixture is sprayed into the lungs. An ordinary nebulizer or spraying device may be found satisfactory for the purpose although a special type of nebulizer which delivers the solution only when the patient breathes in has been found more efficient.

When using this treatment for children or infants, an oxygen mask may also be used.

Doctor Barach and his co-workers have carried out some studies, and have shown that when penicillin is administered in this way, the amount of penicillin in the blood is brought up to a satisfactory level within fifteen minutes to one hour after treatment is started. More penicillin will get into the blood if the patient breathes deeply and holds his breath for several seconds at the end of each breath.

Twenty patients with various types of lung infections were given the penicillin by breathing it in for an average period of ten days. Of these, three suffered from asthma and bronchitis. One had a lung abscess and one bronchiectasis, a condition in which the bronchi or tubes in the lung are stretched and inflamed.

Ten had emphysema or a stretching of the air sacs in the lungs. Many of these ten also had excessive amounts of scar tissue in the lungs. This entire group of fifteen patients were benefited greatly by the penicillin treatment administered directly into the lungs.

Five patients of whom one had a lung abscess, two, bronchiectasis and two, scarring of the lung tissue were not relieved by the treatment.

It would appear that giving the penicillin solution by using a spray may be found to be a helpful method of treatment for a number of chronic lung disturbances.

WALKOUT HITS PACIFIC COAST

Nearly 280,000 Idle in U. S.; Machinists' Dispute Jars San Francisco.

By The Associated Press
A strike of some 12,000 AFL and CIO machinists over a wage dispute partially paralyzed industrial and shipping operations in the San Francisco Bay area today, the first major industrial disturbance there since before the war.

Between 35,000 and 40,000 workers in factories and shipyards not involved in the strike were kept away from their jobs because [illegible] acted to prevent a threatened milk shortage for the bay area.

The labor strife in the Pacific coast metropolis pushed up the number idle across the country because of labor disputes to around 277,000. Strike votes involving thousands of workers were listed, while President Truman arranged to confer with as many of the 16 management and 16 labor delegates as possible before the Labor-Management conference in Washington next Monday.

Picket Lines Formed

The stoppage in San Francisco topped the developments along the labor front. The machinists, who struck yesterday after their demands for 30 per cent wage rate increases had been rejected, formed picket lines at shipyards, manufacturing plants, warehouses, machine shops, refineries and foundries.

Max F. Lowe, spokesman for San Francisco shop employers, said management was ready to negotiate, but both AFL and CIO machinists asserted their 30 per cent wage hike demands were not subject to collective bargaining.

Also on the Pacific coast, there was a flareup in the eight-month-old strike of workers at Hollywood movie studios. Herbert K. Sorrell, head of the AFL Conference of Studio Unions and a leader in the walkout, told Glendale, Calif., police gunmen fired four shots at him last night as he was driving his car out of his garage.

Sorrell reported the shooting shortly after he announced at

WE WAITED three miserable days in our rooms at Manila's University club, while the stubble came out on our chins and we were reduced to smoking cigaret butts down to the lip-burning state.

The [illegible] activity in Manila was with [illegible] we were informed at 1:00 that we were hostages held to insure the success of the negotiations with forces in the south and upper Luzon.

What I did not know at the time was that the Japs had informed our men on Corregidor—including officers who, against all laws of warfare, were put to work cleaning up The Rock's debris—that if the troops in the south and in the north did not surrender I would be forced to witness the shooting of 10 American officers every day those troops held out.

But even without this knowledge, or the foresight to know that there would be trouble in the south, those first three days in Manila were times of great tension.

Answer from MacArthur

Then, on May 11, Col. Jesse T. Traywick returned from Mindanao, my chief source of worry. He reported that Major Gen. William F. Sharp had received my broadcast and that he had radioed Gen. MacArthur, as I hoped he

Vargas Ousted in Brazil Coup

Held Under Guard by New President After Swift, Bloodless Revolt.

By The Associated Press
RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 30 — Getulio Vargas, who resigned as president of Brazil last night in response to army ultimatum, was under military guard at Guanabara palace today while the new president, Jose Linhares, deliberated on what to do with him.

The swift and apparently bloodless coup ended a 15-year rule for Vargas. Linhares was inducted into the office before dawn under an army mandate in keeping with the 1937 constitution which provides that the chief justice of the supreme court succeeds any president who dies or is removed.

Linhares, 70, is charged with heading the government of the largest republic in South America until the Dec. 2 elections which Vargas proclaimed last March. Vargas was not a candidate.

Forces Mobilize

It is known that Linhares, who also is head of [illegible] supreme electoral tribunal, is opposed to any modification of the decree providing for the December election. Gen. NAZIS CRUSHED BY AIR POWER, REPORT SAYS

Survey Authors Declare Planes Decisive in War, Killing 300,000 Germans.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Twelve civilians declared today Allied air power was the decisive factor in the conquest of Germany.

Victory in the air cost the United States 79,265 flying men and 18,000 planes, the British 79,281 fliers and 22,000 aircraft, the committee said in a report to the War Department.

But their air power killed some 300,000 Germans—more than the total of U. S. armed services dead in all theaters — destroyed or heavily damaged 3,600,000 dwellings, made rubble of principal German cities and kept 5,000,000 persons busy repairing bomb damage.

"Hindsight inevitably suggests that it might have been employed differently or better in some respects," the committee said in an officially titled "U. S. Strategy Bombing Survey."

Nevertheless, it was decisive. In the air, its victory was complete."

Asked by Roosevelt

The appraisers were named by former Secretary of War Stimson at the suggestion of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt to make an impartial study of the effects of aerial attack on Germany.

Their conclusion was that Germany [illegible] of the [illegible] months of 1944. [illegible] resources were exposed to all-out Allied air attack.

Of Allied air power, the survey set forth that:

"At sea, its contribution, combined with naval power, brought an end to the enemy's greatest naval threat—the U-boat; on land, it helped turn the tide overwhelmingly in favor of Allied ground forces. Its power and superiority made possible the success of the invasion.

"It brought the economy which sustained the enemy's armed forces to virtual collapse, although the full effects of this collapse had not reached the enemy's front lines when they were overrun by Allied forces. It brought home to the German people the full impact of modern war with all its horror and suffering. Its imprint on the German nation will be lasting."

Almost 2,700,000 tons of bombs were dropped, more than 1,440,000 bomber sorties and 2,690,000 fighter sorties were flown. The number of combat planes reached a peak of some 28,000 and at the maximum 1,300,000 men were in combat commands.

Recovered Quickly

The survey noted it was surprising how quickly the Germans could bring back industrial production after a raid. In the oil industry alone 350,000 men were assigned to the job of trying to see that production was kept going. But after Germany lost the control of the air recent attacks defeated efforts of the repair crews.

The British experimented briefly with industrial bombing, then concentrated on bombing cities. The survey found that no city raid ever shook Germany so hard as one by the RAF on Hamburg in early August, 1943, when German estimates were that 60,000 to 100,000 people were killed and about one-third of the homes destroyed.

But the survey found that "the city attacks of the RAF prior to the Autumn of 1944, did not substantially affect the course of German war production. German war production as a whole continued to increase."

As a rule industrial plants were located around the perimeter of the cities and were relatively undamaged. Production would receive a moderate set-back after a raid, but would recover substantially within a few weeks.

U. S. View of Attack

The U. S. Air Forces entered the war with the view that [illegible] and survival—all rubber, transportation, petroleum, [illegible] yards—were the most [illegible] targets.

However, [illegible] that [illegible] any [illegible]

Jobs-Progress Holds Center of Stage in Marion Election

Far Overshadows City Office Campaign with Voting Just Week Away; Three Ballots Ready for Next Tuesday.

By W. T. BUCHANAN

Marion today is entering the final week of one of its most unusual political campaigns.

It is unusual in that the political phase—the election of city officials—had been completely overshadowed by the campaign in behalf of the five-point Jobs and Progress program for citywide improvements.

Because of the extreme importance of the Jobs and Progress program to the city's future the Marion Civic Planning Group has waged an active campaign in behalf of the program, which includes new school buildings and modernization of others, an extensive program to improve the sewer system, a municipal airport, two municipally-owned swimming pools and a municipally owned city hall.

Few Election Contests

Lack of public interest in the election of city officials is due largely to scarcity of candidates. The Republican party has a full slate but the Democratic ticket lists only candidates for four ward council positions and three council-at-large posts.

Two independents oppose Republicans for mayor and president of council.

Attention of Marion school district voters today was called to an important issue they cannot overlook without serious consequences to the current school term. That is the renewal of the four-mill levy to provide $[illegible] for school operating costs.

No Tax Increase

School officials pointed out that this is not a new levy and its passage will not mean any increase [illegible] the levy [illegible] the last 10 years of the current school term. It requires a 50 per cent majority for passage.

While the levy proposal will be on the same ballot with special issues in the Jobs for Progress program school officials point out that it has no connection with these projects. Funds from the levy are used entirely for operating costs and none of the money will go for construction of new schools.

Three Ballots Ready

When Marion voters go to the polls Tuesday, Nov. 6, they will be given three ballots.

One will be for the special issues, one for the municipal office ticket and the other will be the non-partisan ballot for election of city school board members and Marion township trustees.

The special issues ballot will list these proposals:

Bond issue for constructing new schools and modernizing others in the amount of $1,936,000.

Bond issue for enlarging and reconstructing the city sewer system at a cost of $641,050.

Bond issue for acquiring Harding High school building and converting it to city hall uses, $150,000.

Bond issue for two municipally owned swimming pools, $150,000.

Bond issue for municipally owned airport, $400,000.

TRUMAN LIKELY TO ASK BOOST

Expected To Propose 48 Hours Pay for 40 Hour Week Tonight.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Authoritative persons said President Truman will propose tonight that industry pay 48 hours wages for 40 hours work without raising prices.

They said he will make this request [illegible] President at 10 [illegible] compromise with [illegible] unions that employers be paid [illegible] 48 hours while working 40.

The compromise, if accepted by industry and labor, would mean works a 20 per cent increase in pay compared with the 30 per cent the unions ask.

Would Be Exceptions

Exceptions to holding the line on prices would be made in cases which would work a hardship on the employer, persons informed of the plan said.

Price rise requests would be handled through the Office of Price Administration and the Office of Economic Stabilization.

If the subject comes before the Labor-Management conference opening next Monday some enforcement machinery could be adopted. But industry agreement might be difficult to obtain.

The President will discuss wages and prices with as many of the 16 management and 16 labor delegates as he can meet before the conference.

Today he invited AFL Secretary-Treasurer George Meany to discuss the issues with him, along with James M. Duffy of East Liverpool, O., president of the Government Says No Rationing of Cars

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 — There'll be no rationing of new automobiles.

The OPA and War Production board have decided it isn't necessary because "there is no longer danger of a general transportation breakdown." However, they ask dealers to give preference, when sales begin, to customers whose need is urgent.

Ceiling prices for new cars have not yet been fixed, but many dealers have been accepting orders for months.

The OPA and WPB said last night 24,000,000 cars now on the road are adequate assurance against a transportation breakdown.

ATLEE TO VISIT U. S. ON ATOMIC PROBLEM

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Great Britain will visit President Truman early next month to discuss the future of atomic energy.

"Prime Minister Attlee will visit the President in Washington early next month to discuss with him and Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada problems to which the discovery of atomic energy has given rise," the White House said.

"The prime minister is expected to arrive in Washington as the discussions can begin about November 11."

The speaker for tomorrow night's services at 7.30 will be Dr. Harold Ruopp of the Central Church of Chicago, noted speaker and writer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Ruopp of this city.

Rev. Ray M. Dibble, pastor of the host church, said many former pastors will take part.

Members of the congregation will present "One Hundred Years of Service," a pageant depicting the history of the church, at the closing services Sunday night.

Marseilles Seniors To Present Comedy

MARSEILLES—"Homer's Home Run," a three-act comedy written by Vivian Mayo, is to be given by the Marseilles senior class on Friday, Nov. 2, at 8:00 p. m. in the school auditorium.

Although baseball is a recurrent theme in the play, the humor and comedy is seen through the mistakes and predicaments of a henpecking wife and over-domineering mother. Amanda Hunniwell believes in nobody's opinion but her own. She aspires to civic offices, especially the presidency of the City club. Her meek mannered husband, Homer, has for so long been under Amanda's power, that he cannot even state an opinion.

Clarence Hensel and Janice Clinger play the roles of Mr and Mrs. Hunniwell. Their children, Ethel, Gladys and Joe, are played by Frances Sammet, Mary L. Trautwein and Richard Bower. Other relatives and friends of the Hunniwell family are portrayed by Joann Rose, Darrell Dean, Doris Benner, Louise Hougendobler, Mary A. Hastings and Justin Flowers.

EX-NRA CHIEF HITS "POLITICAL" STRIKES

CHICAGO, Oct 31 — Donald R Richberg, Washington, D C, attorney and one-time head of the NRA, said today "political" strikes "are beginning to harass the United States"

In a talk prepared for delivery to the Chicago Association of Commerce, Richberg said political strikes should be quickly and completely forbidden by law

The political strike, which has been used to destroy governments in other nations, has slapped its ugly threat across our faces several times in recent months," he said "You will recall that telephone operators struck for several hours one day, not against their employers, but against the government They struck to warn public officials that a law must be applied so as to please the strikers or else the public would suffer from the stoppage of an essential service

"Then you will recall that John L Lewis and his volunteer and conscript army of miners put on another disgraceful exhibition of organized, ruthless force They stopped the production of coal and permanently reduced our winter supply although the mine workers had no dispute with their employers But Mr Lewis had a separate quarrel with the employers and with the government over his attempt to organize supervisors So we had a political strike for weeks with vast and irreparable injury to the public welfare"

Richberg said "the way to prevent strikes is to make them unjustifiable and unnecessary by a law which will establish and require the use of processes of justice for the settlement of industrial disputes"

Good News from General Electric

DESPITE the sudden stopping of war work, employment at General Electric has declined less than 10 per cent overall. Rehiring is already under way, and it is expected that more people will be employed within six to eight months than were employed during the biggest prewar years.

What G-E people are making is shown, in part, by the list below. This list of things you and your family have wanted for many months shows the progress General Electric has made in swinging back to its regular job of making "More Goods for More People at Less Cost." General Electric Company, Schenectady, New York.

Alarm Clocks. In January, 1944, WPB okayed making some electric alarm clocks. Within seven weeks, G. E. was in production.

Turbines. Full schedule peacetime production of steam turbines, source of two-thirds of the nation's electric power and the driving power for most of our fighting and merchant fleets, is expected to be reached by December.

Irons. In June, 1944, came authorization to make electric irons. In three months, G.E. was shipping irons. Today's rate is higher than 1941.

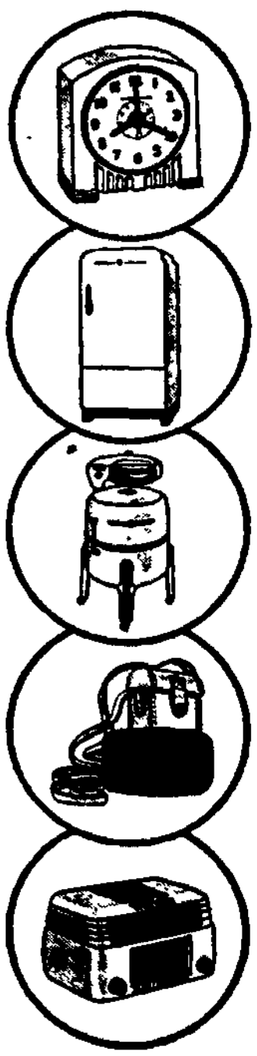
Motors. Ten million were built for war—many of special types and sizes. Now G-E lines are being quickly converted to production of standard types for washing machines, refrigerators, etc.

Refrigerators. After getting green light from WPB in June, 1945, G.E. was in production in eight weeks.

Transformers. Upwards of 70 small transformers were required for a single B-29 Superfortress. Now G-E facilities are turning them out again to help make electricity more useful to you.

Washers. Ten weeks from WPB go-ahead, G-E washer line started rolling in Bridgeport on August 24, 1945. Already they're being turned out at 47 per cent of G.E.'s prewar rate.

Street Lights and Flood Lights. Facilities that turned out mobile anti-aircraft searchlights for the Army, and thousands of signaling searchlights for the Navy, are now producing flood lights for sports and industry, and street lights to reduce the nation's night traffic toll.



Radios. G-E radios will be back on the market for Christmas. Table models will be in dealers' stores in November. By Christmas, 12 models should be in stores, including AC-DC battery portables, radio phonograph consoles. Television and FM will go into production after the first of the year.

Home Construction Materials. Wire, cable, fluorescent lampholders, etc., formerly for Army and Navy use, are now in production for your new home.

Ranges. Manufacture began on the first G-E electric ranges September 9, 1945. Three days later the first shipment was made.

Plastics Production. The plastics facilities of General Electric, largest manufacturer of finished plastic products in the country, have been turned to molding camera, clock and refrigerator parts, toaster and coffeemaker handles, caster wheels and wiring devices, radio cabinets, fluorescent bases, cosmetic jars and covers, industrial and decorative laminated materials, lighting reflectors and shades.

Water Coolers. Production at G E. will equal prewar rate in November.

Automatic Heating. G.E. in January will have oil-fired boilers, conversion oil burners, gas-fired boilers, gas-fired warm air conditioners, all coming off the lines where radar, gunfire and aviation equipment was produced.

Farm Freezers. Will be ready in 1947.

Air Conditioners. One model of room air conditioner will be ready in limited numbers for your next summer's needs. First "store cooler" was shipped the day after V-J Day. More daily.

Radar. The G-E Electronic Navigator, to make ship navigation safer in fog and dark, and to speed shipping schedules, has been tested by many months of actual operation and will soon be available.

Exposure Meters. The new G-E exposure meter for amateur and professional photographers is in production. Present rate is several thousand a week.

Lamps. During the war, the Lamp Department did the double task of supplying both military and civilian needs. Now available once more, but in limited quantities, are such war-discontinued types as: 50- and 75-watt inside frost lamps, 50-100-150-watt medium base lamps, flame-shaped lamps, round decorative lamps, fluorescent lamps, tubuline lamps. Christmas tree lights are in production but will be quite limited this holiday season.

ajor Denied Medical Aid Dies

... MacArthur had replied, in effect, "Use your own ...ent."

Sharp's judgment was the same as mine. He agreed ...render. It was a source of great relief to find him ...ting orders after I had released him, and to know he as I did.

Mindanao at that time was almost completely overrun ...ap forces, and it was thus time to break up our forces ...guerrilla bands, as MacArthur had envisioned.

Not Worth the Cost

But I did not think then, and do not think now, that ...short action that such bands could have engaged in, and ...small amount of good they could have accomplished, ...ld have compensated in any way for what would have ...pened to the men and women of Corregidor. Certainly ...se guerrilla bands could not have lasted the two and ...alf years which passed before our troops got back to Philippines.

On the same May 11, at night, we were joined at the Uni...ty club by Brig. Gen. Lewis Beebe, Major Bill Lawrence Sgt. Hubert Carroll, who brought with them our clothes, toilet ...es and other personal effects. It was a blessing to get into ...ning clean, and to shave.

But with the arrival of our baggage began a seemingly endless ...n of our ever-dwindling effects. The bags were opened in rooms that night and systematically searched by a unit of officers.

Out of my bag they took my tactical maps of North Luzon Bataan, my field glasses, compass and a pair of wire cutters.

Unceasing Questioning Starts

On the morning of May 12 the questioning began, questioning ch was to continue almost without abatement until the day my liberation.

At the very start of the questioning they wanted to know ...nothing had been heard from Cols. J. P. Horan and Guillermo ...ar. They were even more severe about the fact that some ...ll detachments of Philippine Army troops and some of the ...stabulary were making a last-ditch stand on the island of ...awan and in the Bicol Peninsula. They reminded me again ...t I would not be recognized as a prisoner of war until all ...osition had ceased.

I told them I would do what I could, and asked them to ...d to Camp O'Donnell and release Gen. Francisco and Lieut. ...avy, a Philippine Army Engineer who had served in the Bicol ...insula. I told the Japs that I would send them to Legaspi ...l Palawan to speak to the holdouts. With them, I promised, ...ould send Col. Johnny Pugh, my aide.

Hears of Death March

Francisco and Silhavy, much the worse for wear, were brought my quarters in the University club and in whispers told me ...at they knew of the Bataan Death March, a story which made ...sick to hear.

Yet I knew that the Japs were capable of staging other ...ath Marches, and would do so unless all organized resistance ...sed. So I quickly sent Francisco, Silhavy and Pugh to Legasi, ...h instructions similar to the ones I sent to Sharp, Nakar and ...ran.

They went armed with many ...nted copies of this order, along ...h a shorter one signed by ...ncisco, reading:

"To any Constabulary offi...r:

"The undersigned Chief of ...onstabulary upon instructions from Lt. Gen. J. M. Wainwright, U. S. A., senior American officer in the Philippines, is now in Legaspmi to transmit to you an order of surrender to take effect immediately. You are hereby ordered by me that upon receipt of this message to send a representative to Legaspi, Naga, Labor or Sorsogon, whichever is nearest to you, where I shall proceed to meet you.

"The safety of your fellow-countrymen will be jeopardized if you do not carry out these instructions.

"Your representative will be protected by the Japanese Army. Send him under a flag of truce and there will be no danger to his person."

Situation Cleared

The constables on Palawan surrendered without trouble, and the situation around Legaspi soon cleared. But Sharp's orders of May 10 to five Filipino sector commanders on Negros were rejected. They enlisted the sympathetic support of civil authorities and of many civilians, and announced that they did not intend to surrender.

The Negros force was perhaps the least trained of all those under my command, and so badly equipped that the men had only enough ammunition for 20 minutes of sustained firing. Col. Roger Hilsman, commanding officer of the Negros section, was hooted and threatened when he presented Gen. Sharp's order to cease firing.

At the risk of his life he went into the mountains in search of the mutinous leaders, who had threatened to kill any American attempting to communicate with them. When these expeditions failed he twice talked the ranking Japanese officer on the island into extending the time by which the surrender must be effected.

Two Murdered

These extensions were all the more remarkable because three Filipino envoys—a Col. Valariana and his two aides — were murdered by a demented Filipino soldier as they advanced under a flag of truce.

The mutineers also held 196 Jap internees and threatened constantly to put them all to death if we continued our efforts to persuade them to surrender. It was a fantastically ticklish situation, with the lives of countless Americans and Filipinos hanging by the thread of the mutineers' unpredictability. During that awful period of their holdout, I momentarily expected that Jap guns would be turned on the unarmed thousands on Corregidor. And, as I said earlier, I did not know how close I was to being required to witness the murder of 10 of my officers each day the mutineers held out.

Fails To Find Hideout

In the meantime, Col. N. C. Galbraith, in search of Col. Horan, walked for days through the mountain fastness of North Luzon without locating the hideout of the American leader.

To strike new dismay upon us in those early days of our captivity, we lost the cheering comfort and plucky example of Major Lawrence.

On May 13, two days after his arrival with Beebe and Carroll from Corregidor with our effects, Lawrence was laid low with a high fever. He had been sick upon his arrival from The Rock, but we did not consider his condition dangerous until the following day.

On the morning of May 12, when Lawrence's fever rose, I sent word to the commander of the University club billet that we were in immediate need of a doctor. But it was late that evening before a Jap army doctor sauntered in. He gave Lawrence a cursory inspection and left.

With Lawrence delirious, we tried all during the day of May 13 to get the doctor back again. But our increasingly desperate pleas were ignored until 7 p. m. when another doctor arrived. He made the briefest possible inspection of Lawrence, then muttered: "Pneumonia. Both lungs." He shook his head.

Hospital Trip Too Late

I begged him to get Lawrence to a hospital, and after a period of maddening deliberation he consented. Lawrence was taken away about 8 o'clock, and I sent Sgt. Carroll along to look out for him.

Just at midnight, Carroll returned. His face told the story.

"He died at 11 o'clock," he told us, while we shook with mingled rage and sorrow.

I got up early the next morning with a fear that the Japs might cremate the body, as is their custom. Lawrence was a Roman Catholic and traditionally opposed to cremation. I asked for an audience with the ranking Jap officer and pleaded with him to see to it that Lawrence's body was not cremated.

But he laughed at me and told me it would be done despite my appeal. He added, however, that if I cared to bury Lawrence's remains in the military cemetery at Fort McKinley, my old post just outside Manila, it could be arranged.

So I got permission for Johnny Pugh to scout Manila for a Catholic priest and to explain to the priest the circumstances of the cremation.

Sad and Tragic Burial

Pugh returned with the priest late in the day and at about 8 o'clock our little group went to the hospital, under heavy guard, claimed poor Bill's remains and were driven to Fort McKinley.

McKinley looked bleak and barren. It hurt to see the Rising Sun fluttering from the same pole where I had staged so many ceremonies under our own Flag. The place was jammed with Jap troops. The cemetery, once neat and well ordered, was forlornly unkempt. The Japs had dug a great, long community grave, like a common pit, and had filled half of it with dead Americans and Filipinos—buried without identification.

We chose a spot for the urn that held our dear friend. Sgt. Carroll dug its little grave and fashioned a little white cross, while I made a sketch of its location for Bill's wife. The Catholic priest, who shrugged sadly and said that this was war, read the full burial service over the ashes and we said our own little prayers until we were prodded in the backs and told it was time for us to return to our quarters.

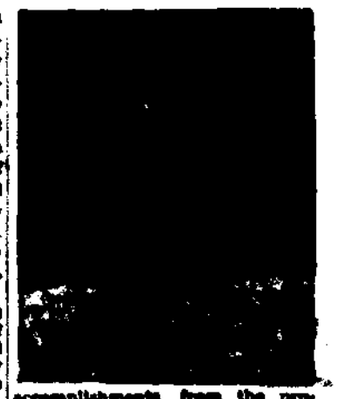
Says Millions of People Only Half Alive



A man now in Los Angeles, but formerly a world-renowned traveler and geographer, honored by leading geographical societies, reveals the story of a remarkable method that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

This man tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one-man-power mind, has within him the mind-power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy-power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs. He states that this sleeping giant of mind-power, when awakened, can make man capable of surprising accomplishments, from the prolonging of youth, to success in many fields.

He claims that millions of people are only half alive, that the drive which gives vitality and strength to their efforts, and which makes life a joy and a triumph, is too often missing. He offers to send his amazing 9,000 word treatise — which reveals many startling results — to readers of this paper free of cost or obligation. For your free copy, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. T-677, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly because this offer may be withdrawn at any time.—Adv.

Off-Center

IN the jargon of politics, words like center, left and right have come to have fairly useful meanings, when properly applied. Thus, when the late Mr. Roosevelt defined his position as being left of center, it expressed clearly what he meant, which was that he intended to do business with the leftists while continuing to retain at least nominal membership in the organization of the center. In other words, Mr. Roosevelt was a moderate, veering left.

Lately it has been made evident that the position defined as the center in American politics is shifting; nothing in politics ever stays long in the same place. In some respects, yesterday's left-of-center views already are today's center views. It is plain, moreover, that a good many things which were lately only a little to the right of center are now so far to the right that they have ceased to belong in the political orbit.

There is still another element in our politics. Its position is best described as off-center. That is, its component parts have no interest in comparisons of views according to the ordinary radical-moderate-conservative scale. They owe no allegiance to anything that exists. Their only interest is in destruction of existing values.

Some of them are called communists, for want of a better term, though they demonstrably are not devoted to Russian communism, which operates as a closely disciplined police state. Perhaps it would be accurate to speak of them wherever they occur—in Europe or in the United States—as anarchists. Their aim is to live outside whatever discipline threatens to encompass them most closely. They refuse to work with leadership in any form. Their reaction is invariably away from organization of any kind, whether it be labor unions, political parties, or international ideologies.

They may be a nastier postwar problem than any of the organized minorities whose ambitions have threatened to make trouble.

The Dissent Is Valid

ADMIRAL KING has joined Secretary of the Navy Forrestal in his dissent from the plan for a single secretary of national defense. Both declare that the professed purpose of unifying control of the Army and Navy can be served better by a refinement of the consultative system used during the war.

Secretary Forrestal specifically proposes a national security council to integrate policies, but retention of the present civilian secretaries holding cabinet rank. The council would have four members — the two civilian secretaries of the War and Navy departments, the secretary of state and a fourth member, who would be chairman of a new body to be known as the "national resources board." The council would act, in effect, as a committee.

The Navy's dissent is valid, however unpopular it may be. It will pick up support, in all probability, from those who find merit in the argument that no individual is capable of taking responsibility for administration of all phases of national defense. David Lawrence, editor of United States News, has written in that magazine that "the device for the potential militarization of America is the newly proposed single department of national defense . . . on the basis of what has been brought out thus far, the scheme looks dangerously as though the heroics of militarism are being used to foist upon the American people at a vulnerable moment in their psychology a system of militaristic thinking which is incompatible with our history and our traditions."

The public's interest lies, of course, wholly in the promise of more efficiency and less cost from a reorganization of the armed services. This might be done in any one of many ways. It is significant at the moment that there is disagreement only about conflicting proposals for improvement. No one is claiming any more that the arrangement existing at the time of Pearl Harbor, or even the arrangement worked out during the war, was satisfactory.

Atomic Tests

NAVY officials are reliably reported to be planning an atomic bomb test in deep water to learn as much as possible about the effect of so great an explosion on fleet units. It is improbable that if such a test can be arranged the public will learn of the outcome.

But it will start a wave of interest in the other uses of atomic power. The United States has wiped out a pair of Japanese cities and is interested in the possibilities of massive underwater explosions. It would be heartening to learn in the near future that the Unied States also is interested in doing something constructive with its share of the knowledge about atomic power. For the sake of argument, it might even be submitted by a skeptic that the greater part of its potential influence lies in its power to do good, though that possibility has been pretty well concealed so far by interest in its lethal effects.

It threatens to be kept concealed, moreover, if this and other governments are permitted to pursue their apparent intenion of establishing an atomic energy monopoly with all decisions controlled by militarists.

More than the possibilities of atomic fission are being tested. The ultimate test may be of man's ability to withstand his own moral fission.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Strikes Get Attention in Top Circles.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 — More conclusive plans to stop the strike campaign have been discussed at the top-inside, the past days, in advance of the Truman wage-price speech.

A project for a flat 10 per cent general wage increase found great favor. The very nature of such a boost however raised doubts about the wisdom of it. The idea is not founded upon any claim of injustice, of price level, or to any particular workers in any industry, but upon the vague politico-economic notion that more wages would furnish more purchasing power.

The sounder advisers around the President thought the wage advance policy should be based on merit instead of a flat generalized figure. The unions should be required to justify their claims in each case.

The government decisions should be geared to dispense economic justice, perhaps through a judicial new labor board not controlled by either the unions or industry, rather than upon the principle of a union WPA.

Stabilization Needed

Morever, an increase of any flat figure could not alone stabilize business or production for reconversion. Stabilization is vitally needed in this reconversion period, which is even more critical economically, than in the war. Absolute permanent assurances for the future must be attained for both labor and business.

A 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase alone will not prevent another outburst of strikes tomorrow, next week, next month. A settlement on that basis is merely paying the unions a sort of bribe to keep quiet a while.

Appreciation of these facts has brought many an administration mentor to the conclusion that the no-strike pledges of wartimes must be renewed as part of the settlement.

There must be more. The current series of walkouts included many which are unique. A local strike of a few hundred teamsters tied up two-thirds of Washington's incoming food and liquor supply, caused goods to pile up at railway depots. The New York elevator strike tied up all the midtown Manhattan business. The electric power plant walkout in Michigan sought to cut off light and energy to an entire community. The telephone strike tied up national communications.

These are not in the familiar pattern of the oil, coal, lumber, auto and similar strikes, but show how a few hundred men pulled out in key cities could tie up this entire nation, indeed could starve it, isolate it, darken it, cut off its fuel energy, without attacking the majority of industries, without support of the big unions leadership, in war or peace, at will.

Strategic workers' strikes could do the job of a general strike, allowing the bulking millions of employes indirectly laid off to live from unemployment compensation (most state laws deny benefits to strikers but allow them to workers forced out.)

Possibility someday of a new kind of national paralysis is what these admittedly test strikes have shown, and they have raised the question whether the government must not hasten to defend the public against such a chance.

Union Responsibility

The settlement must include some system requiring the unions to assume responsibility for what they do (compulsory arbitration like the brotherhoods, incorporation of unions, cessation of the economic (but not political) agitation part of the CIO-PAC, Ball-Burton-Hatch bill, etc.)

These graver considerations are responsible, I think, for Mr. Truman quietly calling in John R. Steelman, the nation's single outstanding labor conciliator, as a temporary personal adviser. The newspapers were told he was to be a "general adviser," probably dealing with congress, but this was a diplomatic excuse to cover whatever hurt feelings labor Secretary Schwellenbach might develop.

Schwellenbach is new at this business. Steelman knows unions and the problems of negotiations more thoroughly than any man alive, from his long experience in the labor department. Also he has the proper objective type of mind.

But unless Steelman's settlement includes the elements of permanency, he will have to be doing it over and over again for the next ten years as it has been done again, again and again in the past ten.

American Foreign Policy

By Walter Lippmann

ALTHOUGH American statesmen have long been addicted to making lists of general statements and calling them a foreign policy they soon find that they have to deal with concrete cases. They have to decide what to do at a definite time in a definite place in dealing with this nation and that nation, and the individuals who transact their business. The generalizations, which were so inspiring in the oration are almost never illuminating in the negotiation.

It is the fashion to explain this by saying, as the President did once more in New York, that these generalizations are like the Ten Commandments and the golden rule, standard of conducts which imperfect men fall short of but most always struggle to live by.

Perhaps there is an analogy. But can we be sure that the state department and the White House secretariat are qualified to promulgate so many supplements to the universal and eternal moral law? If so, we do indeed live in a marvelous age, having succeeded not only in tapping the sources of atomic energy but the source of moral revelation as well.

There Are Contradictions

As a matter of fact, President Truman's edition of our fundamental principles is another in a long series of attempts to find extremely simple formulae for dealing with extremely complicated situations.

Thus in Number Six he stated that "We believe that all nations should have the freedom of the seas." But later on in the same address he said that "Today control of the seas rests in the fleets of the United States and her allies."

Now, as a matter of fact, except in the Baltic and the Black Sea, which the Soviet Union dominates, the seas of the world are under the control of the United States fleet and the British.

Having the power to deny to all other nations access to the high seas, we must not suppose they will regard this control as freedom of the seas. We may hope they will trust us to exercise our power justly and faithfully, and we shall, if we are well-advised, come to specific agreement with them about access to the high seas.

But to talk about the freedom of the seas provides no clew whatever, not the smallest practical guidance, as to the specific agreements which should be made about Gibraltar, Suez, the Dardanelles, the Baltic, the Persian Gulf, Panama, and the Sea of Japan.

For there are no general propositions which in fact govern all these concrete cases. There is no universal rule which can or will be applied both at Panama and at the Dardanelles, and the pretense that there are such universal rules can only confuse our own minds without convincing foreign governments.

If we must make lists of things as a way of defining our foreign policy, we might draw up a list of the great decisions in order to form—for it is not yet formed—a world-wide United States foreign policy. Here is a tentative list:

2. The paramount question in Europe is how soon and under what conditions the non-European armies of Russia, Britain and the United States can be withdrawn from the continent. Even if they cannot be withdrawn for several years, these armies can stay only for the purpose of making it feasible that they should leave. The problem of the puppet governments, the problem of the German settlement, the problems of confederation in eastern Europe, western Europe and in Europe as a whole, will be solved only if the result is to permit and require the withdrawal of the armed forces of the Big Three.

Far East Danger Spot

2. The paramount quqestion in the Far East is how to achieve a condition in which the Red Army will withdraw from Chinese and Korean territory, the American forces from Chinese, Korean and Japanese territory. If the Russians and Americans cannot, or do not, act now in order that they may withdraw, it will be because China fails to attain unity. Korea is not enabled to achieve self-government, Japan has not been made fit for a peace settlement. This will mean that the armed forces of the Soviet Union and the United States will remain closely and dangerously in contact in a region of the highest strategic importance.

3. In the Middle East, and perhaps beyond throughout southern Asia, the paramount question is how far the United States and the Soviet Union are to participate with Britain as leading powers, now that the British imperial power is manifestly unable any longer to play the leading part alone. The problems of Palestine of Persia, of Turkey, of the Arab kingdoms are not soluble separately; they are phases of the same problem, which arises from the fact that in this region of the world there is now no authority, sufficiently strong and sufficiently respected, by which the many conflicts of local and world-wide interest can be settled.

To fix the terms and conditions under which the United States, and also the Soviet Union, can participate in a region which has been a British responsibility is a very difficult matter to determine. But that is just the kind of thing nations have to do when they shape a foreign policy.

4. We have also to decide, and it is equally difficult, how far we can go and what we are prepared to do in order to enable and to induce the western nations to re-establish an international system of private trading. We cannot hope to do this merely by reiterating our belief in the virtues of such a system. Either we shall have to do without such a system, and become the only great industrial nation that believes in free enterprise, or we shall have to take expensive, unpopular measures to make such a system attractive to other nations and workable by them.

That, for the present, is a long enough list of the fundamental issues on which the President and the State department have to make definite policies. For vagueness and ambiguity, even if they are called principles, will not take us far in these troubled days.

The Maine Potato

Long has the rivalry existed between Maine and Idaho potato growers as to the quality of their respective products, but the down East men have new reason to be proud now. Some of the bumper crop this year which cannot be stored has been fed to cows, and it has been found that this feed has increased milk production. Further than that, however, this means that not so much grain will be required, which will make the dairymen less dependent upon the grain growing states in the Middle West. If Yankee ingenuity can find a way to use surplus production of potatoes to such good advantage, it seems that similar means might be discovered to use up the surplus of other products in other sections of the country, rather than limit production of any edible.—Boston Post.

Industry Revived

By The Associated Press

LODZ, Poland — Lodz, great textile industry center and one of the few Polish cities untouched by the war, is reported to have reached 70 per cent of its prewar production capacity.

The Russion's action in bypassing Lodz in their drive toward Berlin left intact not only the city itself but factories, communications and transport systems. The city's population is now estimated at 700,000.

The Nazis paused before the Russian advance only long enough to burn out a section of Place Wolinsci, where lived 7,000 Jews, of whom 800 survive.

Country Outgrows White House

By Raymond Moley

THE REPORT of Ferdinand Eberstadt to Secretary of Navy Forrestal goes a long way toward providing a case for the Navy against a merger of the War and Navy departments. It is not a list of objections, but an attempt to show what can be done, short of a merger to correlate essential military services in both Army and Navy.

Mr. Eberstadt's report does not, however, come to grips with the essential problem, which pertains not to the departments involved, but to the White House. In all our history up to the present, it has been assumed that the coordination of the Army and Navy was to be through the commander-in-chief. He was to weigh and decide their innumerable and interminable differences. He was to provide the necessary link between foreign policy and military readiness. He was to see that civilian production was adequate to supply the services with military material.

System Outmoded

That could measurably be done in a nineteenth century America. At times, it was possible in a pre-war America. But a post-war America has outgrown a nineteenth century and a pre-war presidency.

Unless that is recognized, Mr. Truman will take his place with many other predecessors, who either fumbled their job or were crushed by it. The miracle is that the nation has escaped disaster, because presidents have been expected to do more than Providence has enabled one man to do. Pearl Harbor, the fumbling of war production, the endless experiments with price and wage control and the present diplomatic stalemate all testify to the inadequacy of the presidency as a coordinating office.

The current Army-Navy argument over unification illustrates the problem once more. President Roosevelt tried the device of using Admiral Leahy as a sort of assistant commander-in-chief. It was, in many ways, a good device and it might well be set up as a permanent legal institution under which the War and Navy departments could continue as before. The Leahy job apparently did not involve issuing orders and directives, but consisted of serving as eyes and ears for the president in all things relating to the two services. Much depended on Admiral Leahy's personal qualities and much more depended on his understanding of the unique working habits of President Roosevelt.

What Is Needed

That sort of mediatory agent, not a merger of the departments, is what is needed. It is the president who needs help, and the setting up of a single department would not meet that need.

A few years ago, the president was given, by law, six assistants. Much to-do was uttered at the time about their "anonymity," which was an irrelevant issue. Congress limited their salary to $10,000, and President Roosevelt, with his genius for bad selections, appointed office-boys to the jobs. They served only minor purposes, because they never were, in effect, assistants to the president.

If these jobs could be rehabilitated, with superior appointees, not only the correlation needed in the Army-Navy case, but in many other instances could be provided.

Department heads are busy with administrative duties. Setting up committees of such heads looks like coordination, but it isn't. What is needed is a set of men to assist the president who have no administrative duties, who are not policy-makers, but who can interpret and correlate policy for an overworked president. This has been done in the past, unofficially. It can be done under official status. But the men chosen must be big enough to win the confidence of congress and of the cabinet.

For Lincoln

The old Illinois Capitol building in which Abraham Lincoln delivered his historic "house divided" speech was recently purchased as a Lincoln memorial by the State, and will probably be used to house Lincoln collections.

Lincoln was largely responsible, as a member of the State Legislature, for the selection of Springfield as the capital of Illinois in the 1830's. He watched the construction of this fine old building, where he had his headquarters during the presidential campaign of 1860. After his death in 1865, his body lay in state there.

Today, Springfield is a mecca for those interested in Lincoln lore. Not far from the old Capitol is the home where Lincoln lived two years after his marriage—the only home he ever owned.

Lincoln's tomb with its gallery of Lincoln sculpture and the New Salem pioneer village are other monuments that attract visitors. But the old Capitol, as a State monument, may become the greatest attraction of all.—The Des Moines Register.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Doctor Examines Josef Stalin

DOCTOR. — What seems to be wrong with you?

Stalin.—Maybe something is wrong with me and maybe not. I could be feeling ill, and on the other hand I might not be.

Doctor.—Come come, Josef, you are supposed to talk as a patient, not as a chief of state now. I'm your physician.

Stalin.—If you're a physician find out what's the matter with me.

Doctor.—A doctor has to know the symptoms.

Stalin.—Only in the capitalistic countries. In Russia a doctor finds out for himself. And he has to be careful what he finds and in whom.

Doctor.—Let me see your tongue.

Stalin.—Go look at Molotov's tongue.

Doctor.—To conclude what is wrong with you from Molotov's tongue would not be authentic. It would only serve to confuse the issue.

Stalin.—Good! And in the true Russian pattern.

Doctor.—But how would the world know whether you were sick or Molotov?

Stalin.—I would have a Moscow editorial clear it up.

Doctor.—How is your appetite?

Stalin.—That is a capitalistic question.

Doctor.—Do you sleep well?

Stalin.—Nobody sleeps well in times like these, but I'm not complaining.

Doctor.—Do you tire easily?

Stalin.—No, that was a Nazi misconception.

Doctor.—Do you ever have pains in your chest?

Stalin.—The general situation today gives me great pain, but not in the chest.

Doctor.—Do you ever feel dizzy?

Stalin.—No, but my Allies do.

Doctor.—Do you see spots before your eyes?

Stalin.—Certainly, and I can also see the spots that the Americans and English see before their eyes.

Doctor.—Do you have headaches?

Stalin.—Do I!

Doctor.—Are they severe?

Stalin.—Compared to the ones my allies suffer, they are mild, I rather think.

Doctor.—Do you ever have that all-gone feeling?

Stalin.—No, you must be thinking of Germany, Japan, Finland, Poland and the Balkans.

Doctor.—Well, I can't make out whether you are a sick man or not.

Stalin (pleased).—Fine. That makes it unanimous.

Doctor.—Here are a few pills. Take them after meals anyhow.

Stalin.—You take the pills and if I feel better I'll let you know.

Doctor.—But the pills I take wouldn't have any effect on you; your condition wouldn't be any proof of what the pills were doing to me.

Stalin.—Tscht! Tscht! I can see you don't really understand Soviet philosophy at all.

Doctor (suddenly).—It's funny, but just now I'm the one who feels sick.

Stalin.—That's as it should be. It's a lucky thing you came to me for a checkup!

Fearful Thought

The danger at Washington is that a man may be named as administrator of the atomic bomb who can't even figure out what's wrong with his electric cigarette lighter.

We suppose that some of those folks in those Hollywood strikes and street battles go home and ask their wives, "Where's there a good war picture tonight?"

Gene Tunney says that he thinks the Louis-Conn fight will be a fiasco, due to the fact the boys will meet after four years of inaction and without any tuning up fights. Mr. Tunney has the quaint idea that a fight promoter today worries over details like these.

Corn Shocks

By Truman Twill

Everybody's being quiet about it, but modern farming aims to do away with corn shocks eventually, and this is an early plea for something to be done about it. The corn shock is priceless Americana.

Without it, in the years to come, there would be no haven for hobgoblins on Halloween or homeless field mice on chilly November nights. There would be nothing for mischevious farmer boys to topple over in an excess of high spirits.

On after-dark drives through the country, motorists would see no more ghostly figures looming out of the darkness in the beams of headlights and would no longer have the prickly sense of long arms reaching for them over the roadside moat.

There would be no magazine covers of happy boys curled up in the sunny side of a corn shock, with their laughing-eyed dogs beside them, or of rosy-cheeked little girls with the glint of Indian summer sunshine in their hair.

An artist, hoping to capture the mood of a great continent's heart, would have no more perfect settings for red barns, white farmhouses and the honest, earnest descendants of the first Americans who trod the best earth and knew the breadth and depth of their blessings.

Posterity would be deprived of that most moving scene of the American harvest—the flat wagon-bed piled high with golden treasure guarded by gaunt sentinels.

There would be no more husking contests to the staccato rhythm of the bang-board. Gone would be the scene of shocks white-hatted in jovial winter masquerade. These are things too precious to surrender without a warning of what the loss would mean.

Someone must see to it that the corn shock does not disappear. There must be somewhere in the United States—always—one broad field stretching to the blue horizon in October and into the mists of November peopled with yellow gray shocks, marching in parallel columns. There must be piles of golden ears on carpets of stubble.

On moonlit nights, witches must swoop and soar, goblins scamper and Headless Horsemen gallop over and through the shocks. America the beautiful may be saved by modern farming but it was built on homely, beautiful, satisfying things like corn shocks, husking pegs polished by skillful use and fields of stubble bejeweled in hoar frost under a full moon.

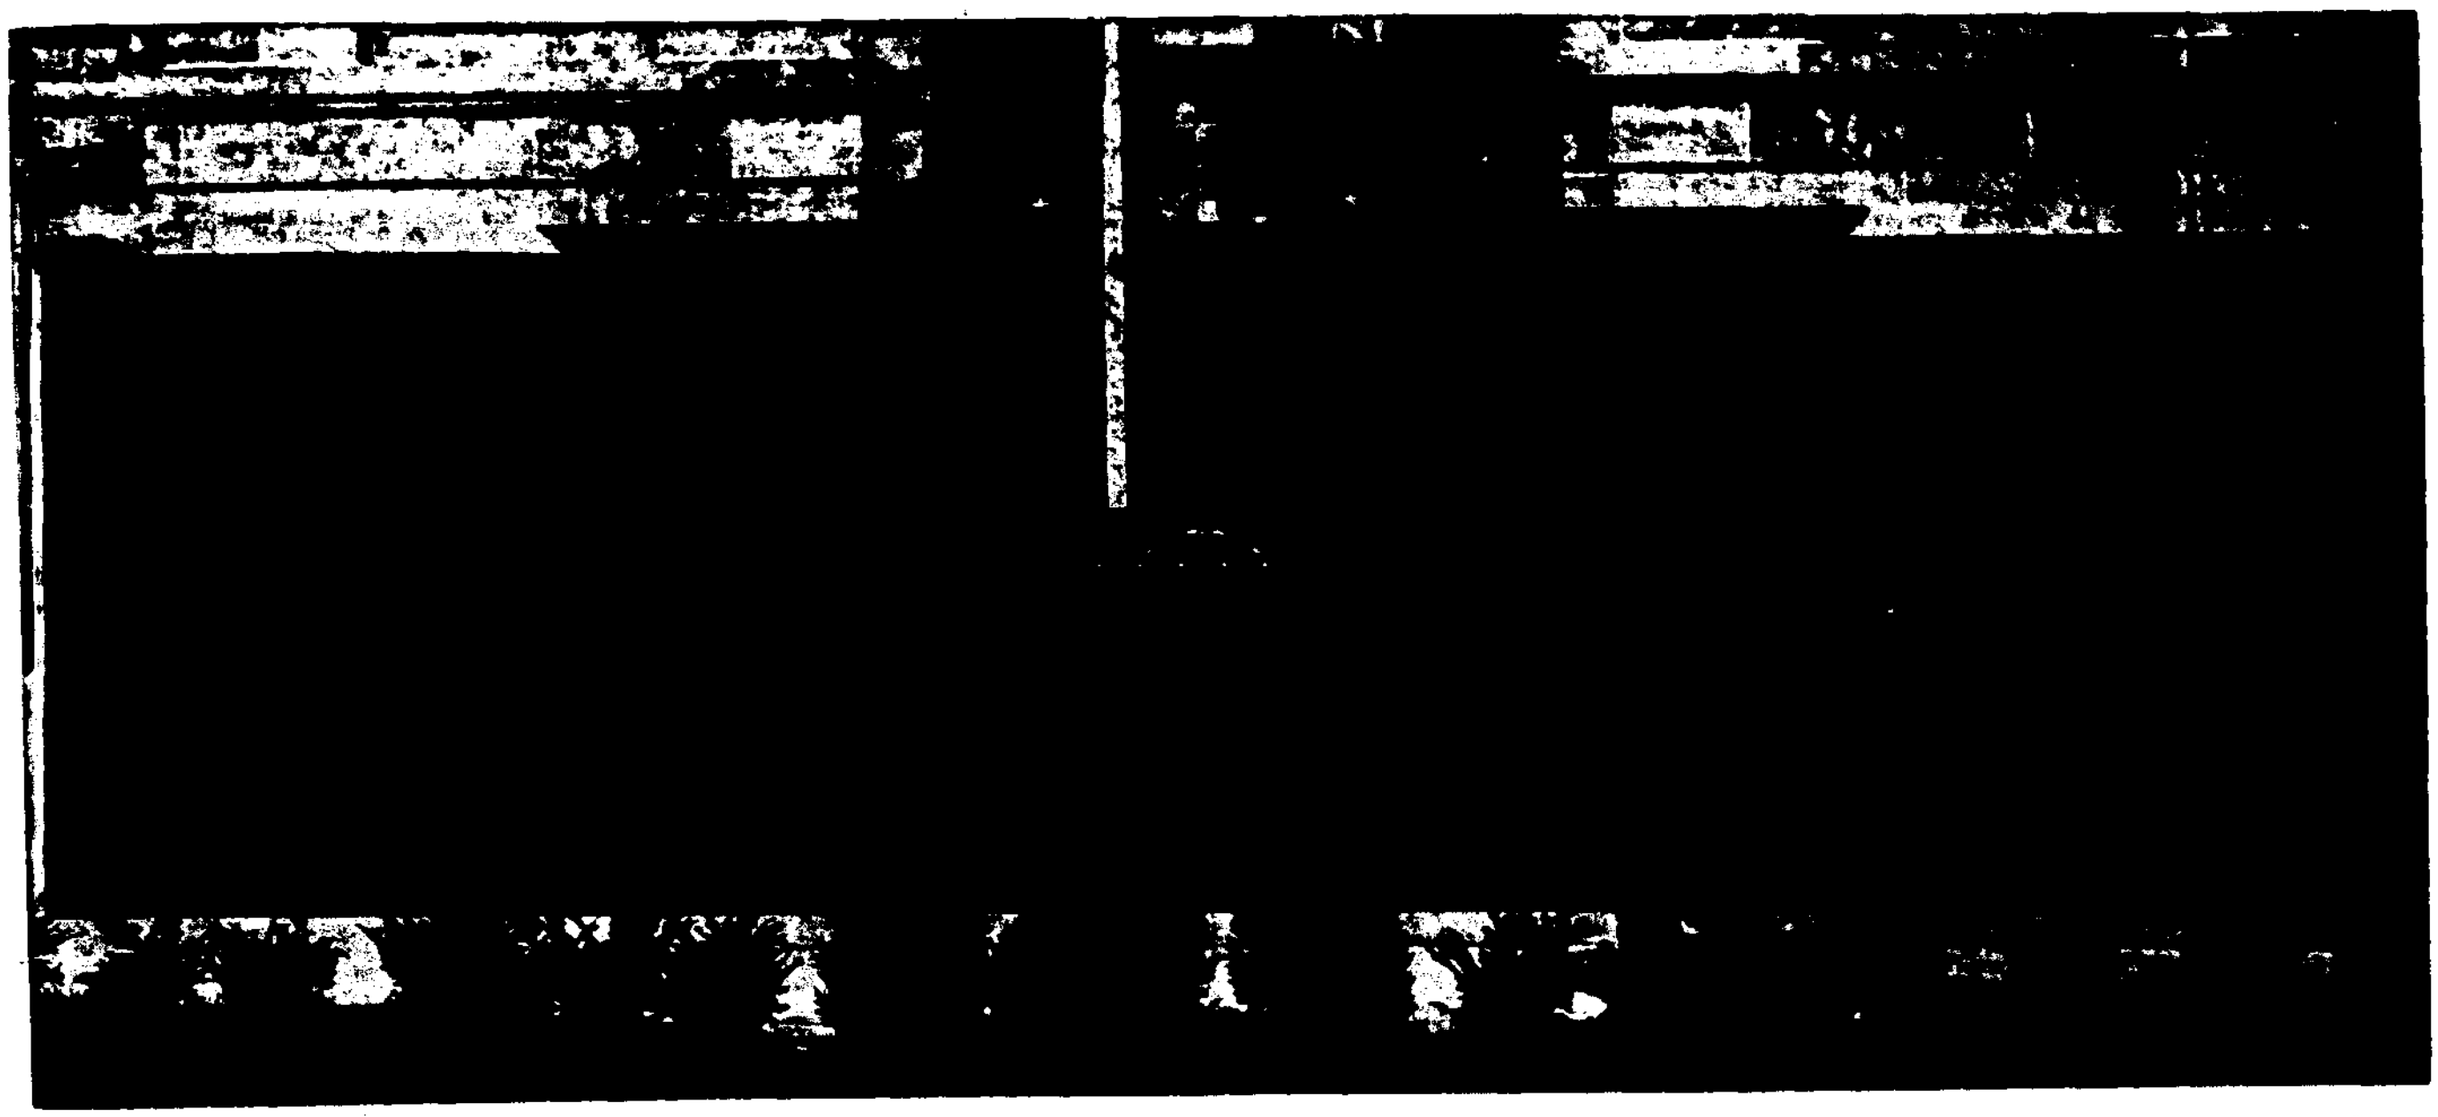
Some of these boys will never come home



. . . but, those who will, certainly deserve all we can do to make it possible for them to earn an honorable and decent living in their home town. —The 'Jobs and Progress' program will do just that!

It will make jobs for returning servicemen in two ways. First, the program itself will provide more than 1,600,000 man hours of labor at good wages. And second, the improvements for which it provides will give Marion "what it takes" to attract new industries, thus affording hundreds of permanent jobs in the future.

If there were no other reason for putting "Jobs and Progress" over, we should do it for the sake of the boys to whom we are so greatly indebted.

We don't want to see them selling apples on street corners. Vote "FOR" all five "Jobs and Progress" bond issues, November 6th!

Here's What Marion Servicemen are saying about "JOBS" and PROGRESS"

"I heartily agree Marion badly needs the proposed improvements. I have asked my wife to obtain a ballot so that I may help with a vote. My sincere best wishes to you and the other members of the Group in a successful completion of your objectives."
Lt. Francis Russo—U. S. Army

"Permit me to voice my hearty approval of your "Jobs and Progress" program. You and your committee have planned well and merit the encouragement of all our citizens, interested in a future for Marion. All five proposals appear to be a 'Must' if Marion is to take her rightful place among her Sister Cities."
Sgt. Wm. R. Kirby—U. S. Army

"I whole-heartedly agree with the program as it is outlined and hope that the adoption of it as a public policy will not be too far in the future. I believe you will find that 99% of the servicemen will support this 5-point program as outlined."
Cpl. Warren H. Hilt—U. S. Army

"I think that it is socially important as one of the ways we can prevent this country from resorting to the forms of Government we have been fighting against. We must provide jobs for all as well as recreation." C. E. Sherer, SK 1/c, USNR

"The school building, gym and auditorium is needed badly. Marion, being centrally located, and having produced good basketball teams in the past should draw huge crowds to these games, if we have a decent place." Lt. (J.G.) George Stafford USN

"The program, as outlined, is excellent All of the improvements mentioned certainly should benefit the city and its citizens." Roy C. Stout, Sgt. U. S. Army

"I am heartily in accord with the program and you may count on me being in complete agreement with the plan." M/Sgt. J. L. McCombs

"I am only hoping that you folks can awaken sufficient interest at home to make the measures carry in the coming election. Marion has long been in need of such improvements. During my three years in the Army I have been able to observe many cities comparable in size to Marion, and have found in the majority of cities, a much keener sense of civic pride. Nearly all of them had modern up-to-date high schools. They also were equipped with modern city buildings and auditoriums. There is no reason under the sun why a modern thriving industrial city like Marion should be deprived of the selfsame conveniences." Pfc. Blaine N. Smith

"While I make no pretensions of being the fire eating civic minded youth, loyalty to my home town has made me wonder if the plan ever would come to. Now, I believe, that the necessary groundwork has been laid and all [illegible] support to carry a good

CONGRESS EYES WAR PROBLEMS

Atomic Power, Size of Navy, Training Plans Keep Solons Busy.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 —Congress seemed increasingly concerned today with preventing a "next war" or preparing for it.

Less than three months after the most terrible conflict in history, the trend of congressional news was distinctly on the military, diplomatic, and scientific side.

U. S. military experts, in a report studied by a senate committee, belittled any idea that "the next war' can be fought by a few men pushing buttons.

They said the atomic bomb is a weapon for use in connection with airplanes, not a substitute for them.

The house continues its discussion of a bill to maintain a powerful peacetime Navy — of 1,082 ships.

And the senate military committee hears testimony from a high Army officer on how to go about merging the Army and Navy. The Navy doesn't want to be merged.

The senate military committee isn't expected to take action on President Truman's request for universal training until Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) returns from Europe on Nov. 15.

The same house committee is expected to complete its action on the atomic energy bill today. This is the bill that would set up a nine-man commission to control and develop atomic energy.

In line with Mr. Truman's determination to do everything possible to make the United Nations Organization work, the state department has laid before senators a tentative draft of legislation regarding the use of American troops by the World Security Council.

The proposal is to give the President—through his delegate on the council—a free hand in deciding when U. S. forces shall be used. He wouldn't need congressional approval.

That means only a number of U. S. troops limited by congress in advance.

There were, of course, some domestic problems knocking around congress.

The house is expected to approve the final form of the tax-cutting bill today, and the senate on Thursday when it reconvenes after a recess.

was "captured" and held by Communist forces north of Hankow for three days while they explained the Communist position to him, praised the Yenan troops as the "best looking troops I've seen in China."

Barred from Entering

A Communist spokesman here asserted that after the Sino-Soviet pact, signed by the Central government and the Russians, the Communists were denied entrance into Manchuria except as civilians.

He said the only Communist forces in the area were guerrillas and "detached" units, although he claimed the Communists had been working underground in Manchuria since the Japanese occupied Manchuria.

Central government troop movements into the unsettled North China regions were considerably hampered by the reported cutting of 100 miles of the Peiping-Hankow railroad by Communist troops.

The Yenan forces officially were reported to have burned bridges, and stations and to have torn up tracks on the Peiping-Hankow line.

Nationalist troops continued northward along the Peiping-Mukden route, however, reportedly to take "defensive positions" along the great wall.

YANKS DIG UP HUGE JAP OPIUM CACHE

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Oct. 30—Occupation troops operating under General MacArthur's directive to stamp out the Japanese narcotics industry, which supplied approximately 90 per cent of the world's illicit traffic, today seized an opium cache worth $50,000,000 at smugglers' prices.

The Americans also located tons of other narcotics worth hundreds of thousand of dollars.

The supreme commander, in two new directives, ordered the arrest of Genki Abe, one of the organizers of the hated Japanese "Thought Police," and commanded that the confidential files of the 15 largest Zaibatsu be reported to him.

MacArthur declined in a personal interview granted Foreign Minister Shigeru Yoshida to modify the recent directive diplomatically isolating Japan from the rest of the world.

Artillerymen of the 97th Division made the big narcotics haul in the Nagano district of central Honshu.

The find included more than $200,000 worth of morphine, novocaine and cocaine, besides medical and dental equipment enough for three hospitals.

Another warehouse produced 30 tons of quinine, which the medical officer said would have been enough to protect 1,000,000 American soldiers from malaria for a month.

A typical infantry division was supplied with 700 miles of telephone wire when it went into action.

House Group Ties Strings To New Fund for Foreign Relief

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 — The house appropriations committee tied several legislative strings today to a recommended new $550,000,000 fund for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (UNRRA).

But it turned down, after hearing State Department opposition, a proposed "free press" amendment which would have required nations receiving UNRRA aid to give United States newsmen free access to UNRRA news abroad.

The recommended $550,000,000 would boost to $1,350,000,000 the total United States contribution to the agency set up by 45 United Nations to provide relief and rehabilitation to liberated countries.

That was the total amount originally promised by this country as its contribution to the cooperative organization. Total contributions of all nations up to last September 30 were $1,284,166,000.

More To Be Needed

But Herbert H. Lehman, director general of UNRRA, told the committee an additional appropriation of $1,350,000,000 will be necessary soon.

The committee wrote these restrictions into the legislation.

1. No new relief supplies shall be shipped to any country except China after December 31, 1946, and none to China after March 31, 1947. The committee said it wanted to "establish well in advance a date for cessation of activity."

2. As much as possible, surplus agricultural commodities must be used in filling UNRRA's needs.

3. None of the money shall be used after December 31, 1945, unless UNRRA certifies that recipient countries have agreed to make available to UNRRA all information on trade and barter agreements and satisfactory information on exports. This requires recipient nations also to agree to furnish UNRRA inspectors with "all necessary facilities, credentials, documents and safe conduct" necessary for on-the-scene investigations.

In rejecting an amendment by Rep. Herter (R-Mass) to give newsmen "full liberty to observe and report upon the distribution and utilization" of UNRRA supplies, the committee followed the advice of Lehman and Assistant Secretary of State William L. Clayton. It did not act on a broader proposal by Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio) to give American newsmen free activity privileges in all reporting in countries receiving UNRRA funds.

Fight Is Seen

Both Herter's and Brown's amendments were expected to be the subjects of a fight when the legislation comes before the house, probably tomorrow. The house Republican steering committee, which shapes party policy, already has approved the principle of the amendments.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes informed the committee that a less restrictive free press amendment might be satisfactory but warned against "a process which may lead to the imposition of restrictive and undesirable conditions on UNRRA's operations by other countries."

RUSSIA

Union had decided to participate.

The word never came.

The Russians have insisted the U.S.S.R., Britain, China and the United States should set up a control council in Tokyo.

Officials said for the record that they were confident the ten-nation advisory commission could be a success anyway. They conceded privately that the prospects for any effective teamwork among nations with a stake in the Far East would be gloomy indeed if Russia ignored the commission.

When he first proposed it, after the Japanese surrender, Secretary of State Byrnes had called it the "Far Eastern Advisory Commission."

But the terms which he sent long with his proposal made it clear the commission—at least at he start—was to limit its activities to advising how Japan could best live up to its surrender obligations.

It was forbidden to make recommendations "with regard to the conduct of military operations" or "territorial adjustments."

Thus, the group found itself today without authority even to discuss the really pressing problems of the Far East—the virtual civil war between Nationalist and Communist forces in China; the Indonesian-British clashes in Java, and the explosive Indo - China situation.

High Points from U. S. Survey of Bomb Damage in Germany

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Highlights from the survey of strategic bombing results in the European war theater:

Allied air power was decisive in the war in western Europe. x x x Its imprint on the German nation will be lasting.

Even a first-class military power—rugged and resilient as Germany was—cannot live long under full scale and free exploitation of air weapons over the heart of its territory.

Under ruthless Nazi control they (the German people) showed surprising resistance to the terror and hardships of repeated air attack x x x. They continued to work efficiently as long as the physical means of production remained.

Whatever the target system, no indispensable industry was permanently put out of commission by a single attack. Persistent reattack was necessary.

It was fortunate that leaders of the German air force relied too heavily on their initial advantage. x x x They failed to develop, in time, weapons such as the jet-propelled planes.

The deterioration of quality of German pilots appears to be the most important single cause of the defeat of the German air force. x x x An overall shortage of aviation gasoline resulted in the curtailment of flying training as early as 1942.

The total loss of German armament output from air raids in 1943 cannot be put higher than about 3 to 5 per cent. x x x By the third quarter of 1944 bombing had succeeded in tying down a substantial proportion of the labor force.

Bomb damage to the civilian economy was not a proximate cause of the military collapse of Germany.

Repeated air attacks, rather than the severity of any single raid caused the almost complete breakdown of German oil production.

The crisis in powder and explosives arose from the shortage of basic materials—notably nitrogen and methanol which had been cut off by the attacks on the synthetic oil plants—rather than by bombing of the industry itself.

By the close of 1944 air attacks on the railroad system, although they had not seriously reduced the ability of the army to originate tactical moves in volume, had imposed serious delays upon such operations x x x. They had reduced the available capacity for economic traffic x x x to a point which could not hope to sustain x x x a high level of war production.

Allied bombing countermeasures (against V-weapons) began in August 1943 when an RAF raid on the experimental station at Pee-Nemunde x x x. The experimental work was unaffected.

A question for the future is "How much protection does a blackout give?" The German results showed that for night bombing it was only a slightly delaying factor. New detection devices make it doubtful that a city or even a large structure can be long concealed in the most perfect of blackouts.

be in complete charge, Goes Monteiro said there had been no military coup. He said the army would guarantee the holding of the elections, which he said the Vargas government no longer was capable of realizing.

The news came with shocking suddenness to the people, in the wake of the appointment of Vargas' brother, Benjamin, as chief of the federal police. He was regarded as a leader of a movement to keep Vargas in power despite the coming elections.

Goes Monteiro, an advocate of state, congressional and presidential elections, resigned as war minister but reconsidered at the request of the army and called for Joao Lins De Barros to resume his office as chief of the federal police.

An ultimatum was served upon Getulio Vargas to resign.

Tanks were assembled in the streets about the presidential palace. The president's wife and another brother, Viriato Vargas, left the grounds. Troops had occupied key points in the city as a precautionary measure.

First word came late last night that Vargas had resigned.

Tear Down Posters

A band of about 1,000 men roamed the streets in the capital, ripping down posters of the Queremistas party, which had been demanding Vargas cancel the scheduled elections and remain at the helm of the government.

Goes Monteiro, said in a broadcast that he had received from the army and navy demonstrations of solidarity in the face of "the wave of anarchy which is nearing."

The nation's military leaders, including the administration's presidential candidate, former War Minister Gen. Eurico Gaspar Dutra, and the opposition candidate, aviation Maj. Gen. Eduardo Gomez, went into conference, after Vargas' resignation.

Vargas seized the power in the 1930 revolution. In 1937 he proclaimed the "New State," dissolved the congress and decreed a new constitution giving the greatest authority to the executive branch.

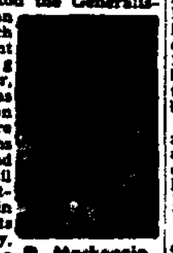
Big Three Facing Momentous Issue in China Strife

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The resurgence of bloody strife between the powerful Chinese Communist armies and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government forces may signal the dread civil war which long has threatened China—a disaster of the first magnitude.

A worried world heaved a sigh of relief in mid-October when the Chinese Reds and the Generalissimo reached an agreement which ostensibly meant peace at long last. However, the ink was scarcely dry on the pact before the clash at arms was resumed and swelled until now heavy fighting is reported in numerous parts of the country, especially the northern section which is the stronghold of the Communists.



D. Mackenzie

You may recall that as far back as early 1943 I reported in this column, after a visit to China, that well informed observers feared the fierce quarrel could be settled only by civil war. The two factions were working under a truce in face of their common Japanese enemy, but even then there were sanguinary clashes and the great fear was that the all-out civil upheaval would come before the Japs were beaten.

Situation Is Grave

Whether we have now arrived at the show-down remains to be seen. We shouldn't rush to conclusions, but the situation is grave.

The trouble is that trying to make a union of the Chinese Communists and General Chiang's Kuomintang dictatorship is like attempting to mix oil and water. The ideas and ideals of the two factions are as far apart as the poles. They just don't mix.

Right here it should be pointed out that the Chinese Communists claim there's no relationship between them and the Russian Communists. General Chou En-Lai, one of the Chinese Communist leaders, assured me that there was no link with Moscow and that the Chinese Reds were mainly agrarians who were interested in bettering the state of the farmer.

Well, far be it from me to dispute the word of Chou En-Lai (who incidentally is a charming gentleman to meet). However, one may remark that what he said could be true, and it still could be equally true that the Chinese brand of communism had its origin in Russia. There have been many signs of at least a sympathetic understanding on the part of Moscow.

Believe In Force

In this connection it may be significant that sources favoring Chiang's government say they believe the only way to unify the nation is to eliminate the Communists by force, and they think the Generalissimo could do it in from three to six months. They go further and figure he would start an offensive against the Chinese Reds if he weren't fearful of the reaction of other countries, especially America, and the possibility that Russia might support his enemies.

Chungking observers are frankly pessimistic about the chances of reconciliation between the Chinese Communists and Chiang's government, the atmosphere of the ancient city is heavy with gloom.

And what would civil war bring to China? There is no conflict so terrible as civil strife. It would mean that the country's five hundred millions would endure an agony far greater than anything they experienced during the Japanese invasion. It would hamstring rehabilitation of the nation's shattered economic structure. China's proud designation as one of the "Big Four" would indeed be an empty phrase.

May Split Nation

It also might mean, as I see the picture, a further division of China. Unless Generalissimo Chiang could crush the Reds—and they are powerful—they likely would split off a huge territory in northern China and set up an independent state there. Indeed, in the long run such a division may be the only solution.

Could this be a moment where the Big Three might use their influence to halt the strife?

AIR POWER

1,000 feet radius around the point attacked.

With the reduction of German air power, oil became the priority target. Attacks on the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania in 1944, together with mining the Danube, materially reduced Rumanian deliveries. The Russian occupation finally eliminated this source of supply.

Germany then depended on synthetic oil plants and by July, 1944, every one had been hit. Production dropped from 316,000 tons a month to a low of 5,000 tons in September 1944. The Germans viewed the attacks as catastrophic, the survey found.

Transportation Hit

The attack on transportation was the decisive blow which completely disorganized the German economy, the committee said. It reduced war production in all categories and made it difficult to move what was produced to the front.

The survey declared that all in all industrial bombing was more effective than "area" bombing—the pounding of cities.

Franklin D'Olier, president of the Prudential Life Insurance Co. and first national commander of the American Legion, was chairman of the survey.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, Army Air Force commander, said study of the survey findings helped guide use of B29s against Japan "with such conclusive results."

"It must be noted," he added, "that this survey was not made merely to secure an evaluation of past performances of bombers but in addition had for its purpose the determination of a guide to the future—the creation of an index upon which our over-all strategy as well as tactics and technique for future operations should be built."

NEW CHARGES MADE AGAINST YAMASHITA

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Oct. 30—Maj. Gen. Basilio J. Valdes, Philippine chief of staff, today told a military commission trying Japanese Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita on war crime charges that he found the half-cremated bodies of his older brother and a nephew in a pit filled with decomposing flesh.

Earlier, the general's sister-in-law, Mrs. Agela Lopez De Valdes, and Mrs. Justa Guido, described how their husbands—Lt. Cols. Alejo Valdes and Jose Guido—were tied up by Japanese soldiers under Yamashita's command and taken away, never to be seen alive again.

The defense indicated it would seek to prove that those who fought the Japanese after the surrender of General Wainwright could be considered war criminals and that the Japanese occupying Manila found themselves in a situation where any and all civilians might be guerrillas in disguise.

Verdict Given by Coroner In Marseilles Quarry Drowning

Special to The Star

MARSEILLES, O., Oct. 30—A verdict of suicide and h... was returned late yesterday by Wyandot County Coroner J. P. ... in the quarry drowning of Mrs. Zula White Hartle, 42, and ... adopted son, Joseph Van Hartle, 12.

Their bodies were found Monday in the Hartle automobile ... merged in deep water of the quarry pool at the west edge of Marseilles.

Dr. Propst said today that Mrs. Hartle left a note at the Hartle home explaining that she was taking the boy and herself "to heaven."

Mrs. Hartle had been in ill health for some time, Dr. Propst said.

Home Near Meeker

Mrs. Hartle was the wife of Paul Hartle, a well-to-do farmer living in Hardin county on the Marion and Hardin county line road. The Hartle home is a short distance north of Route 30-S, and northwest of the Sally Ann tourist camp west of Meeker.

Mrs. Hartle and Joseph left the Hartle home Sunday afternoon, presumably to take the boy to the home of a neighbor to see a playmate.

When they did not return Mr. Hartle became alarmed. He started a search of a countryside and soon was joined by neighbors and deputies from the Hardin and Wyandot county sheriffs' offices.

All Night Search

The search was continued during the night. The first clue found by the searchers was oil on the surface of the quarry pool and a broken guard rail post along the highway near the quarry.

These discoveries were made about 8:30 Monday morning. State highway employes, using a rowboat, shortly afterward located the car submerged in from 12 to 15 feet of water.

The car was pulled from the pool between 11 and 11:50 a. m. by a garage wreck car called from Upper Sandusky. The bodies were in the machine.

Dr. Propst said Mrs. Hartle and the boy left home between 2:30 and 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Presumably they were going to the Milford Shuster residence, but found no one at home.

The coroner said the investigators were unable to determine the time the car was driven into the quarry, but they were of the opinion it was not long after Mrs. Hartle and the boy left home. The note was not found until Monday morning, several hours after the all-night search started.

Mrs. Hartle was a graduate of Upper Sandusky High school in 1920 and was widely known throughout the county as a talented musician and an active church worker.

Born in Illinois

She was born July 25, 1902, in Vermilion county, Ill., a daughter of James and Maleva L... White. May 2, 1925, she was married in Marseilles, O., to ... Hartle. She was a member ... Presbyterian church at Mar... and of the Eastern Star ... there.

U. S. RECOGNIZES NEW VENEZUELAN REGIME

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—The United States today recognized the revolutionary government of Venezuela after consultations with other American governments.

The state department issued this statement:

"The Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes announced this afternoon that the government of the United States has extended full recognition to the government of Venezuela which is now organized under Senor Romulo Betancourt.

"The American ambassador in Caracas is informing the new minister for foreign affairs of Venezuela of this action.

"Before making its decision to recognize the new government of Venezuela the government of the United States of America has exchanged views and consulted with the governments of the other American republics."

The revolution, which occurred only 10 days ago, overthrew General Isaias Medina Angarita, president of Venezuela.

Betancourt is one of a group of young army officers who claim the revolution was to insure more democratic political practices in Venezuela.

The whole wage-price issue revolves about the fact union labor generally worked a wartime 48-hour week, getting time and a half for the extra eight hours. This meant 52 hours pay for 48 hours work.

What the unions have wanted is to get the same pay as in wartime in changing back from the 48-hour to the regular 40-hour week.

This Man Is Among Nazi Chiefs Awaiting Trial for War Crimes.

GEN. ALFRED GUSTAV JODL

By The Associated Press

Thin-lipped, balding Col. Gen. Alfred Gustav Jodl, Wehrmacht staff chief who signed the surrender last May at Reims, was perhaps closer to Hitler, as his personal chief of staff, than any other Nazi soldier. A career warrior, Jodl was a colonel and a lesser known cog in the High Command when war came. He signed Greek capitulation terms in 1941 and was named Hitler's military aide a year later, took part in most of the Fuehrer's conferences with Mussolini and was at his side during tactics meetings. He directed the Armed Forces Guidance School, in the 1944 bomb plot on Hitler's life, then jumped in rank to colonel general. He spoke to a command on the caving Russian front . . . made a last plea for "mercy" at the surrender ceremonies.

Ohio Wheat Harvest May Keep Farm Incomes Ahead of 1944

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30—Ohio's golden wheat harvest may keep the income of the state's farmers ahead of last year despite sharp drops in profits from beef and bacon.

The Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported today that the state's farm receipts totaled $408,232,000 in the first seven months of 1945, against $403,209 in the comparable 1944 period. However, the increase showed only in crop income, which rose from $99,623,000 to $113,411,000 while livestock and livestock products—the main source of Ohio farm income—dropped from $303,586,000 to $293,621.

Dr. J. I. Falconer, professor of rural economics at Ohio State university, traced the decline in livestock receipts to the drop in hog production, which in turn went back to the glutted hog markets of 18 months ago. Farmers then cut down on their plans to avoid again being caught in an overloaded market, and the results are now.

Dr. Falconer credited the bumper 1945 wheat crop of 62,508,000 bushels which sold for an average of $1.55 a bushel, as compared with $1.45 a bushel for 46,905,000 last year for the bulk of the rise in crop income. Wheat acreage rose from 2,035,000 last year to 2,273,000 in 1945, while yield rose from 23 to 27.5 bushels per acre.

The increase in farm income came despite a decrease of 8,417 in the number of farms but with an increase of 62,253 acres in farm lands since 1940. The Bureau of Census reported that Ohio had 233,783 farms in 1940, and 225,366 today, with farm acreage rising from 21,907,323 to 21,969,776.

Dr. Falconer said the figures reflected a trend away from the 60-80-acre family-sized farm, with some being cut up into one-man farms of ten acres or less for city workers and others being absorbed into the large farms of 200 or more acres, heavily mechanized.

"Brain Ship" to Sail for Home Closing Career of Adventure

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO Oct. 30—The 'brain ship" is sailing for home soon, after one of the most adventurous careers of any vessel in naval history.

She is the USS Ancon, 14 000-ton remodeled Caribbean passenger freighter which participated in five famous amphibious operations of World War II as the American Navy's first headquarters ship

Hal Boyle

She was known as 'The Admirals' Go-cart," for she carried more high-ranking "brass" than any seagoing craft of this war

This $5,000,000 military dream ship, stuffed with costly communications equipment, was the target of repeated submarine glider bomb and kamikaze attacks But she came through the entire war without losing a man

She remains comparatively unknown to the general public because she wasn't a "combat vessel" in the same sense as a battleship or a cruiser. Her role was even more important Off Sicily, Salerno, Italy, Normandy and Okinawa she was the command vessel, true 'brain center" for vast and delicate amphibious operations Sheltered by her thin sides, Navy and Army leaders directed landings of hundreds of thousands of troops on hostile shores—that had to be won.

Distinguished List

Among her star boarders have been King George VI, Generals Omar Bradley, George Patton and Mark Clark, Field Marshal Montgomery, the late Secretary of the Navy Knox, and such naval dignitaries as Sir Bruce Fraser, commander of the British Pacific fleet, and U. S Vice Admiral H K. Hewitt and Daniel Barbey She also has been second home to scores of war correspondents who learned that every voyage yielded front page news

However, the Ancon was a civilian at heart

When she was put into service in June, 1939, on the run between New York and Cristobal for the Panama Railroad Co, no one had any idea she would become the farthest ranging communications ship of the war that was to break only a few months later

She joined the Army Transport Service in January, 1942, and made two trips to Australia carrying American troops She then participated in the Casablanca landings and rescued survivors of a naval transport torpedoed nearby. 'After a voyage to Oran and Algiers, she returned to the Norfolk Navy Yard where she was converted into a combined headquarters and communications command ship In July, 1943, she was the command vessel for General Bradley in the landing of the 45th division at Scoglettl, Sicily.

Salerno Worst

The fire she underwent there was nothing compared with the ten-day siege she suffered at Salerno, where General Clark used her to direct the opening of his Italian campaign Under incessant aerial attack, she miraculously escaped with only a few shrapnel injuries to deckmen, although the cruiser Savannah and other vessels near her suffered heavy casualties and damage from German radio-controlled bombs

Her luck held again in the invasion of Normandy when she was the flagship of Rear Adm John L. Hall and Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, commanders of the force that stormed deadly "Omaha Beach," whose costly sands are overlooked now by a cemetery with thousands of American graves.

Converted to Pacific duty, she went through the Okinawa campaign unharmed as the flagship of Vice Adm. Harry Hill, commander of the Fifth Amphibious force For three weeks she underwent almost daily Japanese suicide attacks, and once in an 18-hour period her gunners helped beat off 19 air raids

At Tokyo Also

She also took part in the bloodless Tokyo landing and her last major job was to serve as press ship for the Japanese surrender aboard the battleship Missouri.

There probably won't be any brass bands waiting to welcome the Ancon when she reaches America. But she has earned a hero's homecoming.

How would you feel if you knew that your vote had kept hundreds and hundreds of returned soldiers—hundreds and hundreds of laid-off War Workers—out of jobs? Vote "FOR" all 5 Bond Issues on November 6th and see that Marion takes care of its own with worthwhile jobs of real work!

Here's how all of us who live here will benefit. we'll have better and more modern schools, we'll have swimming pools; we'll have adequate sewer facilities, we'll have a modern municipal building, and we'll have a new airport.

Remember—most of the $3,277,950 represented by ALL 5 Bond Issues is for jobs—jobs for your neighbors, perhaps even members of your own family! Much of the balance is for materials that will be purchased right here at home. That means busy factories and workshops.

So make sure that your whole family goes to the Polls on November 6th and votes "FOR" ALL 5 BOND ISSUES! It's a duty every citizen of Marion owes his neighbors—and himself!

Straight Talk

Victory Loan

You are being asked to buy War Bonds—Victory Bonds, they are now—after the War is over.

Why?

All of us know, without being told, some of the reasons.

We know that a million and a quarter Americans were killed or wounded and that we must take care of the injured men and the families of the dead.

We know that there are still millions of Americans overseas and that we must bring them home as soon as we can and maintain them till they get here.

We know that the G.I. Bill of Rights gives these men—and rightly—mustering-out pay, loans, education—a chance to make up for the years they have lost—a chance to get a start in the free and peaceful world they won for all of us.

These facts are obvious—just as obvious as the fact that it will take a lot of money to handle the problems they present.

It's also obvious, when you come to think of it, that winding up a war as big as this one is expensive business in other ways. For instance, huge sums are still required to pay for war materials which were ordered, produced, and delivered some time ago.

These reasons for buying extra Bonds in the Victory Loan are clear and easily understood.

But there is another reason for making the Victory Loan a success which, perhaps, doesn't come so easily and clearly to mind:

In these years of war, the American people have displayed mighty sound judgment.

Man by man, family by family, group by group they have come to accept Bond buying as a way to obtain financial and economic security for themselves as individuals and for their country.

Whole communities have thus changed, in the last few years, from debt-ridden, hand-to-mouth groups to communities of solid citizens with a financial reserve, a financial stake in the American system, and a newly formed habit of regular saving.

As a result of this good judgment, we have been able to hold off a disastrous inflation, finance a good part of the costs of war, and save the incredible sum of 100 billion dollars.

And as a result of these accomplishments, we, as a nation, stand ready now to win our final battle in the fight to throw off the effects of war and get this country back, as fast as we can, on a solid, prosperous, peacetime economic basis.

To win this final battle, we need only keep on doing, for a little longer, the same things we did so well during 3½ years of war. We need to keep on saving until reconversion is complete.

The next few months will tell the story. And if, during this critical period, we will only use the brains, the will power, the energy, the enterprise, the materials and resources with which we won our war, we can't fail to win the peace and make this the richest, happiest land the world has known.

Making the Victory Loan a smashing success will be a clear notice of our intentions.

* Following the Victory Loan, the sale of E, F, and G U. S. Savings Bonds will continue through regular authorized agencies and through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Extra Decoration

In case you are wondering about the uniform of Capt. Edwin Rackham at the Army recruiting station, here is an explanation. We found out the other day that since he had served in the Royal Canadian Air Force he was entitled to wear the Canadian wings as long as he remains in any uniform if he places them on the right side. So although he is in U. S. Army uniform he still wears the Canadian wings on the opposite side.

Always Accommodating

One woman residing in the East Side called today to inform us that post-war service has certainly picked up. Seems as though she was attempting to fasten a new mailbox up the other morning when the mailman comes along and stops long enough to give her a helping hand. However, we never knew the time, war or no war, when Marion mailmen weren't accommodating.

Infant Ingenuity

When little six-month-old infants learn a means of transportation that is faster than using their own hands and feet it's really one for the books. One young mother told us recently that when her infant son sits in the Taylor-Tot he waits until the family dog comes close enough then reaches out, grabs a handful of hair and takes off when the dog trots across the floor.

Grandpa on Fire

Some Marion grandparents were recently recounting experiences with their grandchildren, now several years older. One of the most amusing were the remarks by the granddaughter when she discovered her grandfather had set his hair afire while trying to light a pipe. The little girl piped up "Oh Grandpa, it's all black, you must have burned it clear down to the wood."

A Bit of History

A bit of history of former days of Marion when The Star office was on East Center street in the building now occupied by the Marion Water Co. came to light this week.

It concerns the old press on which the Star was printed when the paper was owned by President Harding. Source of the news was Lester Yeager, former foreman of the Star pressroom and now production manager of the Indianapolis Star.

Yeager wrote that he had learned through the representative of a newspaper press manufacturing concern that the old Star press still is in operation. It is owned by a job printing concern in Baltimore, Md., and at the time Yeager wrote had just finished a run of a half-million newspaper sized circulars.

The information brought back memories for Yeager because the old press was the machine on which he served his pressroom apprenticeship. Later he became pressroom foreman in the present Star plant, subsequently going to the Indianapolis Star as head of the entire mechanical department of that paper.

Singing Usher

We heard a report the other day about some local talent. Seems as though there was a "community sing" motion picture short showing at one of the theaters and the people sitting in the rear of the balcony got more enjoyment listening to the usher singing the words than they did the screen singers. They reported him to be quite good.

Dry cleaners must be getting a big rush along about now with so many servicemen returning to civilian life and all of them determined to get into mufti at the earliest possible moment.

Where Buttons Go

We always wondered what became of buttons lost in a commercial laundry so we asked the other day. For your information, most of them are small enough that they go down the drain when the water is emptied from the huge tanks. Once in a while they find a large one but not very often.

Sweater Tail

What appeared to be a little brown and white tail attached to a green sweater of a young man the other noon turned out to be a tail all right, but it was attached to the proper end of a very tiny brown and white pup tucked into the crook of the boy's arm.

U. S. ATOMIC SECRETS
To Keep Or Not To Keep

AP Newsfeatures

THE two atomic bombs that fell on Japan in August unleashed a worldwide storm of discussion as intense as the destruction visited on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The accompanying chart gives the highlights of pro and con debate on the ifs and whys of keeping the method of the bomb's manufacture a secret or letting additional nations in on the secret.

President Truman.	He will negotiate with Britain, Canada, then other nations to evolve terms "under which international collaboration and exchange of scientific information might safely proceed."
Sen. Tom Connally (D, Tex), chairman Foreign Relations Committee.	"Frankly, there are nations I wouldn't trust to restrict it to these two purposes (self-defense, and world peace)."
Sir Stafford Cripps, president, British Board of Trade.	There's no chance to keep secret permanently, but keep it as long as possible and work for world federation within 10 years.
Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, head of atom research for the U. S. Army.	"The weapon can be used as a diplomatic bargaining point."
Hon. Ernest Bevin, British foreign minister.	It must be a secret until world security organization is established.
Hon. Clement Attlee, British prime minister.	Must be a secret until world organization is secure.

VETERAN TO BATTLE FOR JOB WITH STATE

Question of Holding Public Posts Open Faces Test.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30—Whether a state or local government must reinstate a service man or woman to a former job is an issue that appears headed for court.

Navy Lt. Wilson E. Hodge, secretary of the Ohio Public Employes Retirement board for eight years before entering the Navy in 1943, protested the board's appointing Fred L. Schneider as secretary until Jan. 1, 1947, instead of holding the position open for him.

Hodge had advised the board he would be released about Nov. 1 and wanted the job.

William J. Maloney, board chairman, declared at Cleveland last night Hodge would institute a court fight for his reinstatement.

The chairman, one of two board members opposing Schneider's appointment, asserted Hoge was given a leave of absence to enter the Navy and Schneider, whom Hoge had employed for actuarial work on the Public Employe Retirement system, was made secretary, "knowing full well that it was a temporary advancement."

Schneider was appointed after Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins introduced a motion to continue his contract at a board meeting Oct. 18, declaring Hoge had been hired for a specific term which expired while he was in service.

Jenkins declared that in the opinion of his office Hoge had no legal reemployment rights since the secretarial position did not come under the state's classified service.

Gov. Lausche yesterday took the position that state and local governments were bound morally to give service men and women their former jobs, even though they were not forced by law to do so.

He also asserted he expected all state departments within his control to reinstate service people in their old jobs.

Nelson Watkins, president of the Ohio Civil Service Employes association, said action of the retirement board appeared to be a "stab in the back during Hoge's absence." He reported the matter would be brought before the association's executive board Wednesday.

STRIKES

least 6,000 pickets would resume marching at major studios Wednesday unless an agreement is reached tonight in the AFL Jurisdictional dispute.

In Pittsburgh, a committee of the CIO-Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers authorized filing a strike vote petition which a union spokesman said would affect 102,000 workers in 34 Westinghouse Electric Corp. plants in 25 cities. He said the vote was the union's answer to the company's rejection yesterday of its demands for a $2 a day wage increase.

A company official said granting the demands would cost the company $135,000,000 a year. The strike vote, union officials said, would involve employes in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Maryland, West Virginia, Michigan, Illinois and California.

The Galveston (Tex.) waterfront was closed today and an estimated 4,000 ship repair workmen were made idle because of picketing by striking AFL clerks and checkers of the International Longshoremen's association.

Effects Are Spreading

Lumber contractors in Portland, Ore., said the five weeks strike of some 60,000 AFL lumbermen will result in the virtual shut down within 10 days of construction in the four northwest lumber producing states. The union held firm in its demands for a $1.10 hourly minimum.

Employes of the Mack Manufacturing Corp. plants in Allentown, Pa., New Brunswick and Plainfield, N. J., voted to strike but negotiations continued with the company in efforts to settle demands for wage increases.

Some 2,500 CIO strikes at Thomas E. Edison, Inc., plants in Kearny, Belleville and West Orange, N. J., were to vote today on whether to accept terms reached by union and company officials at mediation sessions.

CIO United Automobile Workers said preliminary balloting indicated Ford Motor Co. employes will approve work stoppage by wide margin in Nov. 7 strike vote, same as unionists balloted in General Motors and Chrysler Corp. polls, union chief has accepted President Truman's bid to White House conference.

Marion Naval Officer Sees Gym As Boon To Basketball Team

A gymnasium for Harding High school basketball teams is one of several features of the Jobs and Progress that appeals to George F. Stafford, former Marion insurance man, now a lieutenant (j.g.) in the U. S. Navy.

Lt. Stafford, who recently has been in Barnes General Hospital at Vancouver, Wash., recently wrote a letter to the Marion Civic Planning Group adding his indorsement to the Jobs and Progress program and pointing to the benefits to high school athletics that would come from an adequate gymnasium.

His letter follows:

"My wife was kind enough to mail me your well written letter explaining the Jobs and Progress program. Let me compliment you and the group on your start in the right direction. I read the letter and was quite enthused.

"Let me comment on the project I found most interesting. The school building, gym, and auditorium, is needed badly. Marion, being centrally located, and having produced good basketball teams in the past, should draw huge crowds to these games. If we have a decent place in which to play. Old Edwards gym at O.W.U. has long been the place where the Central High basketball tournament has been held. There is no reason why Marion should not have this tournament if we have a place to play. Dramatics at Harding High has always held a high place, and we never have a good place to give the shows. Personally, I think that we should have an adequate auditorium. Keep this gym and auditorium at the present stadium, as it is an ideal location.

"The reason I have had so much time to comment on these things is that I've been laid up in a hospital for a short time. They can't let me out of here any too soon. I feel that I should be on my way again before too many days. Who knows, perhaps I'll get back home before long.

"We just came back from a few months in the Philippines. Best of luck to the planning committee. You certainly have made a good start. Keep it up."

Cordially yours,

Control will remain in force pending military decision on when the interested owners may be permitted to enter the territory.

Properties affected include International Telephone and Telegraph, American Radiator, Ford Motor, Woolworth, International Business Machines, Singer Sewing Machines, International Harvester, Gillette Safety Razor, Intertype Company, General Electric, National Cash Registers, General Motors and Anaconda Company.

In addition to the commercial and business establishment, some 200 private properties—owned before the war by American residents in the United States—have been taken over by Military Government for safeguarding.

bs and Progress Finds Backer Faraway Philippine Islands

faraway Bantagas, Luzon, Philippine Islands, comes ...ceman's indorsement of the Marion Jobs and Progress

Blaine N. Smith of 612 Wood street, has written the ...ning Group giving his support to the Jobs and Progress

... follows:

...at received your letter ... proposed improvements. ... I am accepting your ... comment also ... I think your plans ... a great deal of merit. ... hoping that you folks ... sufficient interest at home to make the measure carry in the coming election. Marion has long been in need of such improvements. During my three years in the Army I have been able to observe many cities comparable in size to Marion, and have found, in a majority of the cities, a much keener sense of civic pride. Nearly all of them had modern up-to-date high schools. They also were equipped with city buildings and auditoriums.

"There is no reason under the sun why a modern thriving industrial city like Marion should be deprived of the selfsame conveniences. The city fathers owe the children the advantages of modern school facilities as well as the playgrounds.

"I sincerely believe that the measure will pass, the list of officers of your planning board looks very impressive. The time is right. And the city is wealthy. The war is over as you say and there is no excuse to postpone the issue further.

"Rest assured that I will cast my little vote for it as well as to spread the word to the four or five other Marionites in this company.

"Thank you for your wish for our speedy return, that is another subject on which we see "eye to eye." Wishing you people complete success in your fine endeavor, I remain,

Your staunch supporter,

New Kitchens!

That's what Modern America is planning right now. Kitchens that will appeal to women of good taste. Kitchens where you will be proud to serve that evening snack. Kitchens that will save you hours and hours of hard work.

That old hodge-podge kitchen is out. You can't be content with just a stove, a wall sink and a work table of the vintage of 1920. Today you can make your kitchen the most admired room in your home—every piece in harmony with the floors and walls—every piece designed to save you hard wok.

Pick up any magazine. Here you will find pictured your own new kitchen. Select the one that fits your home or come in and let us help you design just the kitchen you have been wanting. We have hundreds of pictures—many in colors.

Then, too, we have quality cabinets—kiln-dried hard wood or enduring steel. You tell us what you wish and we will plan that new kitchen for you—floors and walls of Armstrong Linoleum and cabinets of the highest quality.

You'll be surprised to learn how little it will cost you to make yours the loveliest kitchen in town. We are kitchen specialists. Consult us. It will cost you not a penny.

LENNON'S

259 West Center

Why do they think of Lennon's when folks think of LINOLEUM?

Answer—

Because Lennon's sell beautiful kitchens and bathrooms.

Because Lennon's expert mechanics are trained in the Armstrong school.

"Mickey" Gets Bid in To Santa Early

Santa Claus is being paged at the North Pole already by a certain client in Marion named "Mickey."

Since it is a long way from here the little Marionite figured the letter had better be sent in plenty of time and it was postmarked enroute to Santa on Oct. 25. The letter, printed in beginner's block letters, asked for "two steel guns with holsters, a B-B gun with B-B's, a Mickey Mouse watch if you have them, if not any kind will do. Also a two wheeled bike with head lights and kick stand and pants, shirt, books and marbles and fruit, candy and nuts." It was signed "Love Mickey."

Postmaster Homer Cole was certain it would be delivered safely—even without the stamp.

Army, Irish and Navy Hold Top Spots in AP Grid Poll

Ohio State Bounces Back to No. 6 in Weekly Ratings; Purdue Weakens.

NEW YORK, Oct 30.—Army, Notre Dame and Navy retained the first three places among the country's top ten football teams as determined by the weekly Associated Press poll today but the remainder of the elite group underwent a thorough shake up.

Three new clubs were admitted to membership, three others grabbed new places and only beaten Pennsylvania kept it position.

Army, playing what the Cadet coaches said was the team's best game of the season, defeated Duke 48 to 13 Saturday and today did one of its best vote-getting jobs by snaring 91 first places on the 106 ballots cast Ten critics placed the team second and five rated it no better than third.

Notre Dame's unbeaten string and its 55 to 0 conquest of Iowa induced six voters to place the Irish first and Navy was the choice of three Alabama garnered four first place votes and St. Mary's of California received two

The Cadets, who have been on top since a year ago this week when Notre Dame relinquished the throne, gathered 1 040 points

Alabama, which battered Georgia by a 28 to 14 score Saturday, hopped from sixth to fourth and was followed, in order, by Indiana, Ohio State, Pennsylvania St Mary's of California, Oklahoma A & M and Michigan.

Ohio State, Oklahoma A & M and Michigan are the new members of the top ten although it is a return appearance for both of the Big Ten clubs Defeats suffered last Saturday by Purdue, Minnesota and Texas sent the trio out of the major ranking

West Coast Fireball Leads Grid Scoring

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct 30—The Pacific coast has come up with a claimant for football's national high scoring honors in Terry Ragan who piled up 72 points for the unbeaten University of Redlands eleven before being transferred to Southern California by the Navy last week

Ragan, a halfback, scored 12 touchdowns for Redlands which concluded its campaign after five games.

Trailing Ragan by six points were Jim Boswell, of Oberlin, the midwestern leader, and Walter Trojanowski, of Connecticut, who tops the eastern pointgetters Boswell hung up his togs when Oberlin completed its eight-game schedule two weeks ago but Trojanowski, still has a chance to overhaul the national leader.

NORTHWESTERN TILT TO DRAW BIG GATE AT O. S. U. SATURDAY

All General Admissions Gone; Widdoes Gets Bucks in Shape for Clash.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct 30—A capacity crowd of around 73,000 will watch the Ohio State football team play the surprising Northwestern outfit here Saturday

Northwestern's upset win over Purdue plus the Buck's flashy comeback victory over Minnesota resulted in a sellout yesterday of all the general admission tickets

Coach Carroll Widdoes wasted no time in getting the squad ready for Lynn Waldorf's Wildcats.

The Buckeyes spent nearly an hour yesterday studying pictures of the Gopher encounter Widdoes had the skull session broken up by five minutes of sprinting and calisthentics

Ollie Cline, Bob Dove and Paul Sarringhaus remained longer on the practice field, concentrating on booting

Assistant Coaches Jack Graf and Ernie Godfrey, who scouted the Northwestern-Purdue game, reported the visitors will have a passer similar to Purdue's Bob De Moss and a very strong right side of the line

Their passer, and key to the T formation, will be Jim Farrar, 18-year-old six footer who is adept at tossing the pigskin to End Max Morris He attended Cleveland Shaw High school.

Big Ten Forecasters Have Tough Time

CHICAGO, Oct. 30—This unprecedented business of such teams as Minnesota, Ohio State and Purdue bouncing back and forth from the victory column to the losing side of the ledger is beginning to cause a few jitters to a lot of Western conference football prognosticators.

Only unherailed Indiana is unbeaten in the conference, but the Hoosiers still haven't won a title, and won't until they get past Minnesota and Purdue.

Purdue, Ohio State, Michigan and Minnesota have lost only one game each in Big Ten competition, but those four still have a pretty long row to hoe before they even can hope to claim a crown.

Three league games are scheduled this week-end, and the Big Ten title may hang on two of them—Northwestern at Ohio State and Minnesota at Michigan. Although Northwestern dumped Purdue out of the unbeaten class last week, an Ohio State victory will be necessary in that game to keep the Buckeyes in the running for the title

Michigan will have to dump the Gophers to stay in the title fight

Wisconsin plays at Iowa in a game having little bearing on the title, while Purdue entertains Pittsburgh and Great Lakes plays at Illinois.

NEW YORK, Oct 30 — The latest headache for football coaches who pour "T" for the opposition Saturday afternoons seems to be the "back in motion" penalty They're all catching it and a couple of speakers at yesterday's hamburger and hot air session protested they wouldn't believe the officials until they had seen the game pictures Army's Herman Hickman maintained there was considerable doubt about some of the penalties called against Army because officials can't be sure when that ball is snapped right back into the quarterback's hands whether or not it is passed before the backs start moving And Adam Walsh voiced a similar opinion about a costly penalty to his Cleveland Rams Maybe spherical Steve Owen had the answer for that one "Herman," he said, "the way those boys of yours can run after they get started, I wouldn't be in a hurry to get them off"

Cleaning the Cuff

Dudley Jones, who set the Michigan State college one-game basketball scoring record (25 points) in 1942, will re-enter school this winter after three years in the Merchant Marine Virginia Tech, which has been emphasizing the youth of its footballers this season, had a note in the program last week that when fall practice started "there were three candidates still awaiting their seventh birthdays." After seeing Tech play Virginia, Coach Mac McEwer probably claimed it wasn't a typographical error but they really looked like eight-year-olds

Rum was originally known as rumbullion in the 18th Century, as rumbo in the 19th and finally as rum today. It meant "great tumult" in Devonshire dialect.

Massillon Game at Cleveland May Set New Ohio Gate Mark

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Oct. 30 — It looks like a cinch the record keepers will jot down a new attendance mark this week for a regularly scheduled Ohio High school football game.

Cleveland Cathedral Latin, riding a 20-game winning streak, will clash with Massillon's Tigers in Cleveland's municipal Stadium Friday night and the estimates of the probable attendance have run as high as 40,000

The contest looms as one of the biggest tests of the season for Latin, but, judging from last Saturday, the Clevelanders are ready for it They fashioned a 72 to 2 victory over Cleveland East Massillon, which had a scoreless tie with Warren Friday, has won four games and tied three this season

Big Mansfield Game

There also probably will be considerable more than a few customers out to see Toledo Waite and Mansfield at Mansfield, That will be undefeated and untied Waite's only game outside of Toledo this season Mansfield, after a good start, has taken consecutive shellackings from Massillon and Canton Lehman but Waite's performance against the Tygers should provide the dopesters with plenty of comparative information when they start figuring out the mythical state champion

Cathedral Latin, Waite, Newark, Cincinnati Purcell, Dayton Chaminade and Youngstown Ursuline continued to head the undefeated and untied parade this week although the perfect record list still includes a score or more teams

At least four were removed from that group last week They were Martins Ferry, Minerva, Port Clinton and Northfield. The biggest casualty, of course, was Martins Ferry which absorbed a 19 to 0 beating from East Liverpool's potters.

At least two outfits have uncrossed goal lines They are Elida and Ottawa Hills and Elida also boasts one of the state's top scorers He is Ray Reigel who tallied four touchdowns and four extra points last week in his teams 60 to 0 conquest of Columbus Grove

Upper Sandusky In List

Others in the unbeaten and untied list include Upper Sandusky, Crooksville, Ironton, Van Wert, Tallmadge, Piqua, Copley, Reading, Troy and Lowellville

Skipping here and there among the week-end games

Cliff Wilke scored five touchdowns and two extra points for a total of 32 as Hamilton Catholic whipped Hillsboro for its fifth triumph against one tie Wilke, already called the best back in Hamilton since Paul Sarringhaus, is a nephew of Bob Wilke, former Notre Dame star, and his dad is Harry Wilke, former Chicago Cubs infielder ..Canton McKinley's hopes for the remainder of the season were hurt when Harold (Red) McCoy, star end, suffered a broken arm on the varsity's last play of the game in a 50 to 0 triumph over Steubenville .

Hal Cline of Canton Lehman had a 90-yard touchdown run in his team's 51 to 6 conquest of Akron Kenmore Youngstown Ursuline's 40 to 13 victory over Youngstown Chaney was the first time the Irish had beaten Chaney in eight starts . A forward pass, knocked down behind the goal line, gave Canton township a safety and that was the margin of Minerva's first defeat of the season.

Bill Looks Paunchy in Cleveland Exhibition Bout; Jackie Wins.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 30—At least two of the ante-bellum ring stars who spent some time in Uncle Sam's service apparently face considerable work to reach their before-the-war form.

Heavyweight contender Billy Conn and Cleveland's Jackie Wilson were the principal attractions on the arena fight card last night and both were far away from prewar form, although Jackie stopped Frank Terry of Brooklyn in the fifth of their scheduled 10-rounder

Conn staged his first exhibition in preparation for this second match with Champion Joe Louis next summer—a three-rounder enlivened in the second when Conn missed a left hook and the opponent's head and flopped on the canvas.

Although paunchy, Conn stepped fairly lively against a Pittsburgher with the somewhat misleading title of Bearcat Jones

He weighs 195 pounds, Little Johnny Ray, Conn's manager declared after the fight, "and don't he look a lot more handy than you'd expect at that figure"

Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, said of Conn

He'll probably get down to around 183, which is just about the weight Demsey carried against Willard If the few extra pounds don't hurt Billy's speed, he should be a better fighter against Louis than he was last time"

Wilson had little trouble in disposing of Terry. The tall Jackie Davis stopped the fight at 2 57 of the fifth There were no knockdowns Wilson weighed 148 and Terry, 151.

In the preliminary bouts Tommy Toloto, 142 of New York knocked out Jimmy Carroll 140, of Detroit, 2 00 of the third Jarry Berthaiume, 187 of Montreal knocked out Charlie Lomski, 185, of Jersey City at 2 47 of the second Charlie Pedalino, 164, of Detroit decisioned Jack Hill, 168 of Bloomington, Ill., in six.

Roy Lewis, 138, of Muncie Ind outpointed Rudy Zadell, 142 of Barberton O., in six.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 30—Sunday was bond burning day in the local Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church. Rev. H. C. Kellermeyer, is the pastor.

For this church the month of October had been devoted to the theme "Thanksgiving" marking the completion of the payment of the congregation's indebtedness which a little over two years ago was $26,000.

Dr. Carl D. Kriete, who had served as pastor for about a year prior to entering the missionary service in Japan, was the speaker both in the Church school and morning worship hour.

CHURCH BURNS NOTE AT SERVICES HERE

Overflow Congregation Attends Sunday Program.

Overflow crowds marked services at First Evangelical and Reformed church Sunday when Harvest Home was held in the morning and a ceremony for burning of a note on the church debt was conducted at 5 p. m. followed by dinner. Approximately 325 attended the note burning service in the church sanctuary. A program was conducted at the dinner hour.

Taking part in the service in which the note was burned were three members of the original building committee for the church when construction of the edifice was launched in 1926. They are Harry Wires, who now resides in Pennsylvania, E. L. Cleveland and Ray Reidenbaugh. Also participating in the note burning were Frank Klingel and LeRoy Conklin, present trustees of the church. Mr. Reidenbaugh is a trustee. Trustees who secured the loan to finance the project were Lee Howison, Clarence Coleman and Henry Fries.

Music was presented by Mrs. F. Sinning, organ, Mrs. A. O. Linscott, violin, and Alan Cleveland, piano, and an anthem was sung by the choir, Rev. E. H. Wierth, pastor, conducted a responsive reading. Rev. Fred Schweinfurth of Cleveland, denominational official, spoke on "The Christian and Evangelism."

Nuetzel and Dana Nuetzel, a version of Longfellow's poem, "Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree," was presented by Misses Mary Knickle, Marcella Bolander, Elizabeth Haberman and Mrs. Don Quigley. Herbert Weckmueller, of Milwaukee, Wis., pastor of the congregation at the time of construction of the church, and a letter from him were read by Rev. Wierth.

Flowers donated in honor of the special services yesterday decorated the church, and fruits and vegetables given for the harvest home also were decorations. TAKEN TO COLUMBUS

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 30—Two of the seven Allen township youths implicated in the recent highway shooting escapades in the central section of Union county were taken to the State Bureau of Juvenile Research at Columbus today for observation. They were accompanied by Mrs. John W. Dailey, Union county probation officer.

F. L. PARROTT DIES

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 30—Frank L. Parrott, 42, local barber, residing near Ostrander, died in White Cross hospital late Saturday. He was a native of Magnetic Springs. His father, Charles Parrott, a native of Somerset, England, lives at Ostrander. His mother is deceased. Funeral services were held today in Delaware.

Thirteen out of every 20 American high school students expect to leave their home towns and live elsewhere, after they have completed their education.

REV. E. D. PIPER RALLY SPEAKER

Evangelist on Youth for Christ Program Heard by Audience of 262.

The Marion Youth for Christ rally held at the Masonic temple Saturday night drew an audience of 262. Rev. Elmer D. Piper of Chattanooga, Tenn., a member of the Charles E. Fuller evangelistic party, spoke and in the absence of Dr. C. E. Hershey, director, Rev. Marvin Lewis, assistant director, was in charge. A telegram of greeting from Dr. Hershey who is in Washington, D. C., conducting special meetings, was read.

Special music was presented by a vocal trio composed of Mrs. Chatfield, Mrs. Kenneth Connolly and Miss Ruth Glenn; Rev. and Mrs. D. E. Patrone of Barberton, O., who were in Marion for revival services, violin numbers; Miss Dorotha Goyer, octamarimba; and a Bible quiz was shared by Misses Mildred Morris, Ruth Corwin and Marilyn Endicott. Rev. Lanne Beausay and Miss Olson accompanied group singing. Part of the program was broadcast over radio station WMRN.

Rev. Piper spoke on "Facing Facts" and talked on the certainty of death, death of the soul through sin, and spoke of the "cure" for death, "Christ, who offers eternal life." He made an appeal to Christians to "make your life count for Jesus," and to others to "accept the cure offered by God." Using particular Bible verses with each point of his message, he declared that death comes to children and youths as well as to the aged; no provisions of wealth or prominence can hinder death; sin is a curse and because it came into the world death came, all being under the curse of death; Christ is the "cure" for the curse of death.

The youth rallies are held each month under the sponsorship of an organization of Christian Business men of the city.

WAGE RUMORS RETARD STOCKS

Reports of Truman Proposal Help Hold Down Bullish Elements.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—Selling was exceptionally light in today's stock market but it was sufficient to give leading industrials and rails a further jolt to lower levels.

Reports the President in his broadcast tonight would advocate higher wages and a maintenance of current prices again served to chill bullish contingents. Thoughts of tax cuts offsetting pay boosts dropped sentiment to some extent. The cloudy labor picture inspired much investment caution.

Dealings slowed appreciably after the opening and early recessions running to more than a point were reduced here and there near the fourth hour.

In the losing bracket most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodyear, Eastern Air Lines, Douglas Aircraft, Santa Fe, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, National Distillers, American Can and General Electric. Occasional advances were posted for American Telephone, Great Northern and Western Auto Supply. Many pivotals were virtually unchanged.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

FROM the tone of my father's voice, I knew that it was only a routine task he wished of me, and I was guiltily glad. Any more contacts, such as that with Georges, I viewed in the light of a comment an old colored cook of Lillian's used to make.

"Any moah stuff like dat am something I don't want nuffin of forevermoah," she used to declaim, and I mentally echoed her words.

"I am ready for anything," I told my father, with a quietly attentive manner, and he nodded his approval.

Not An Arduous Task

"I know you are, my dear," he said, "and this will not be an arduous task. As soon as I have departed with Georges, I wish you to go back to the Philip Ventizen apartment and tell Philip I wish a very special favor from him."

He smiled at Katharine before he went on, and I knew suddenly, as she did, I was sure, what the favor was.

"Tell him — in confidence, of course—that Jack and Katharine are to remain here for a day or two. Explain to him how Georges is being taken away in Jack's disguise, but stress to him that the other two are to be my guests while they are her at the Lansfield, and that I wish him to give them the very nicest suite he has available—one, incidentally which can be adequately guarded."

Despite her poise, Katharine gave a startled little "Oh!" which she caught back almost before she had uttered it.

My father smiled at her indulgently.

"Of course Jack has to be guarded," he said. "He's carrying around in his brain a most tremendous secret, one of vital importance to civilization. I don't think he is in any danger of discovery here, but I am taking no chances."

Katharine's eyes were suddenly starry as she looked at him.

"You take care of everybody except yourself," she said. "There's no use scolding you, however. But I do want you to know how Jack and I love your thoughtfulness. There's only one thing that troubles me. Don't you need me down at the hideaway with Sam Brixton?"

Whimsical Smile

He gave her a whimsical smile.

"Does Sam really need the services of a professional nurse now that he is no longer under the influence of that drug Helena was giving him?" he asked.

"No," she answered promptly. "Any intelligent person could treat his burns. Even his lady wife," she added with a sardonic little laugh.

My father chuckled.

"Especially if she were carefully watched," he said, "and Mrs. Holland and Mrs. Richards, two of the best in the business, are constantly on the job with her."

"You don't trust her any more than I do," Katharine said childishly, and my father chuckled again.

"She is one of the most untrustworthy persons I know," he said, "but she is in a position now where her hands are absolutely tied. And perhaps you can guess why I think it is better all around that Mrs. Holland and Mrs. Richards are guarding her."

Prompt Answer

He was looking at me, and my answer was prompt, for I had thought it out some time before.

"I think," I said, "that those women can guard her with less friction and resentment on Helena's part. If Helena has to take orders—something she hates—she would infinitely rather receive them from a stranger than from a woman she had known intimately for years."

Katharine nodded vigorous acquiescence.

"You have something there," she said. "Oh, Chief, will I be glad to be here for awhile!"

"I guessed that," my father said, and then he looked quickly at the bedroom door which was opening.

"Here they come now," he said.

Rash on Skin

ECZEMA is a skin rash that occurs when babies have an oversensitive skin. This oversensitivity may be inherited or may develop after birth.

Eczema in infants may be one of three styles. In the first type the rash usually occurs on the cheeks. As the baby rubs his face against the pillow, the rash tends to spread across the cheeks, may get into the scalp and, finally, to the arms, legs, and trunk.

The rash starts as small, pale-pink blisters. Rubbing causes the skin around the blisters to become reddened.

In the second type, the first signs appear on the scalp with scales that look like dandruff. The skin around the edges of the scalp is reddened, and finally, the rash may spread around the ears and to the neck. Later on, the face may be affected.

The third type usually appears in the folds of the arms, the backs of the knees, and around the wrists. Later on, it may extend to the face and larger areas of the skin. Persistent scratching may eventually cause the skin to become thickened. The lymph glands in the regions near the rash may become enlarged. As a rule, the irritation is worse at night.

In treating eczema, Doctor R. T. Brain of England suggests, first, that the baby be made as comfortable and contented as possible and kept from scratching the skin. This may require the use of cardboard cuffs, placed around the elbows. Second, anything which irritates the skin should be kept away from the baby and, third, ointments or lotions which are cooling and soothing should be applied to the skin.

In addition, the mother should make an effort to ascertain what foods are best tolerated by the child, as well as those which may tend to aggravate the eczema. Constipation should be corrected if it is present. Harsh laxatives should not be used.

Doctor Brain also thinks that small doses of alkaline preparations are helpful in treating eczema, and that sedatives may be prescribed by the physician if needed to decrease the general irritability. He also suggests that extra calcium or lime and vitamin D be given. If the baby is not breast fed, ordinary boiled cow's milk appears to be satisfactory as the basis of the diet.

It is also suggested by many physicans that soap not be used on the skin, but, rather, that the skin be cleased with a non-irritating oil.

With proper attention, eczema on infants can be sucessfully be cured.

The Disappointment Is Mutual

MR. TRUMAN, being the gregarious person he frankly is, must resent the circumstances that have caused him to cancel his scheduled trips for the remainder of the year. His countrymen are disappointed, too. It looked for a time as if their President might be the political beneficiary of an era of good feeling, free to devote himself to staying acquainted with the people on a friendly basis, to travel and to preside genially over a smoothly functioning administration. Mr. Truman had demonstrated very early in his ascendancy to the presidential office a facility for friendship and good will that promised to make the White House a symbol of unity, as it used to be in the old days before the class warriors made it their national headquarters.

Critics have been complaining lately that Mr. Truman hasn't quite seemed to be keeping ahead of the political procession. It has been pointed out that his more sober-sided countrymen weren't taking kindly to his expeditions and junkets; that he wasn't looking grim enough in his photographs; and that it was no time for the chief executive to seem to be light-hearted, with strikes and international disillusionments all the time. Apparently, this has had its effect. There will be no more junkets for a time—and perhaps there will be less laughter when the cameras are focused. Harry S. Truman, if the signs are reliable, has been advised to change his presidential character. To him and to all of us—sympathy. It would have been so much more pleasant to keep on dreaming that things were better than they have turned out to be

The Unseen Audience

INDUSTRY'S pay-price-production bicker may have a silver lining. The longer it lasts the sillier becomes the whole idea of so-called collective bargaining that leaves out consumers.

During the war, premium production costs could be piled on in the form of overtime wage rates and inefficiencies with complete assurance that taxpayers would pay all they could and the rest could be put on the cuff. The 40-hour work week, a relic of the New Deal's preoccupation with the theory that production needed to be held down to keep prices up, had no place in the war and was observed chiefly in the breach. But taxpayers paid the resulting fines cheerfully, because they were assured that there was no other way to get maximum war production.

The 40-hour work week is still with us, being exploited now as a peacetime implement to extract a little extra from consumers. But consumers are not taxpayers. Consumers don't have to pay or else; they can go without and not have any, if they choose. And in peacetime there is no government cuff to keep track of unpaid balances, no War Bond drives to keep production going at any cost. It makes a difference. In short, what is regarded as collective bargaining between organized labor and management inevitably ends up as bargaining between all the people who have things to sell and all who are expected to buy them.

It's time for the collective bargainers to look up at the unseen audience awaiting the outcome of their maneuvering. That's where the ultimate bargaining must be done—with consumers.

A Jobholder for Every 43 Indians

REPRESENTATIVE JOSEPH W. MARTIN JR. used an apt example a few days ago in congress to illustrate federal payroll padding. "The office of Indian Affairs," he said, "has grown to 7,619 persons or one bureaucrat for every 43 Indians. Next year the department wants 32 million dollars and 306 new jobs. The Indians have been here long enough; let's set an example for other nations. Emancipate the Indian and let him be a free man."

The war interfered with the Republican party's drive to reduce the rate of growth of the federal bureaucracy under the New Deal. Wartime spending diverted popular attention from the extravagance of the New Deal's ordinary expenditures. But now, with the war eliminated as the blanket excuse for profligate spending, but with high taxes remaining, it should not be difficult to revive the campaign to save the government from bankruptcy.

Representative Martin's remarks in congress are only one sign that the high cost of government is the forthcoming prime political issue. The fact that the Truman administration has moved so quickly to make a gesture of tax reduction to divert attention from its continuation of deficit spending is another sign. In 1946 and in 1948, with all the deficit chickens home to roost and eating up the taxpayers' substance in interest, there will be no other political issue worth mentioning.

That forgetful character, the Jap war criminal, must be constantly reminded of his crimes. If worse comes to worse, of course, we could tie a string around his neck.

With the atom bomb constantly in our reckoning from here on, just wondering about another war is as you have defined it, Sherman.

The chemical components of the human body, once quoted as 98 cents, are up to $1.50. Yet, some people pretend there is no inflation.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Truman's Statement Pleases Moscow.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—The Moscow dispatches said Mr Truman's declaration of the new American foreign policy "heartened" Moscow.

But no heartening and no change was immediately evident in Moscow's actions. The very same day the Russian delegation walked out of the United Nations food conference in Quebec, and in newspaper columns parallel to those reporting the heartening were stories of the Communists unleashing their army of a million men upon China in civil war.

A break in the stalemated condition had been hopefully promised between the lines of some comment for the past few days—since Ambassador Gromynko's visit brought Truman and Stalin into correspondence, and grapevine here has been reporting Russia is loosening up, that Stalin went away for that month to think things over and decided the Russian tactics at London, which broke up the peace conference, should be moderated.

Enthusiasts with large ears to very small spots of ground here have heard Russia is coming wholeheartedly into the world organization. These hopes have not reached print in any formidable way, but they are present behind the renewed negotiations.

Old Note Creeps

Simultaneously an old note has crept back into the dispatches from Moscow. A very famous writer for a large American newspaper lectured Americans, when he announced Mr. Truman had "heartened" the Russians. He said we must realize Stalin is suspicious of us. This note has been taken up by other commentators, who say the whole problem now is whether this government can appease the suspicions of Russia.

When this note comes into any discussions, I go out. This is the basis by which Russia never lost a point in dealing with Mr. Roosevelt. There are no valid grounds for Russian suspicions of any nation right now, and everyone realizes this, including Stalin. The thought of attacking Russia does not exist anywhere in the American mind. A fear of Russia is present in this country, but it is not an offensive fear (in the military or diplomatic meaning of offensive.) We all know this.

So when they start that old stuff and nonsense, it can only suggest propaganda is being laid for appeasement again. Consequently genuine hope for sound settlement may not prove justified even if one is announced.

The Russian walkout from Quebec, for instance, was predicated upon something more tangible and obvious than ill-founded suspicions. This was a conference of the nations to promote food production throughout the world and make people eat more of it, an ideal which should be right down the Russian alley, if she needs the help from us she has been requesting. Her delegates to that conference demanded representation there for an extraneous organization which has nothing to do with food—the world trade unions federation.

This WTUF is the international labor organization which our CIO's Hillman bit on, with results similar to the mastication of a green persimmon. He went to Paris for its convention a few weeks back only to find the Russians in charge of the convention bringing in a report allowing them voting strength for 27,000,000 union workers while Hillman and the British were allowed a small fraction.

Too Much for British

The British could not accept such a swallowing of the international interests of their unions. A compromise was worked out which gave the Russians only about 60 per cent domination of WTUF instead of 95 per cent.

The Reds even got representation for unions in Romania (which they occupy) although the British Laborite Sir Walter Citrine publicly said he had never heard of a union in Romania. Russia also showed control for French and Mexican labor.

Naturally the food conference could not incongruously seat these people, as the Russians well knew, the raising of such an issue could only have been an excuse for withdrawal.

Similarly before the ink was dry on the Asiatic peace treaties by which the Russians agreed to withdraw from Asia and keep their Chinese Communists quiet, the Commies started a civil war. Not only this, but Moscow reared and demanded ouster of General MacArthur and a joint hand in administering Japan. She had been in that war 25 days (which, incidentally she entered in violation of her treaty with Japan.)

On the plain face of events, there seem good grounds for suspicions but can these be cleared by appeasement? It is singularly clear that they must be dispelled by actions from Moscow, restoring valid basis for confidence.

Daily Bible Thought

Christ tried very hard to teach men that there is a renewing power in worship in contact with the imminent spirit of God which is amazing in its character: "They that wait for Jehovah shall renew their strength, they shall mount up with wings as eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not faint."—Isa. 40:31.

South American Revolution

Venezuela Refines It with Blitz Technique.

VICTIM. A civilian of Caracas, wounded in street fighting between loyal police and rebels against President Medina, is taken to a hospital. Others heard the airplanes drone.

By C. ALLAN STEWART
Associated Press Writer

CARACAS — For a long time Venezuela has been noted for crude uprisings in which Caudillos, or landed political leaders, seized power with soldiers and hard-riding cowboys recruited from their estates.

Now, with planes, tanks and other modern arms, Venezuela has revolutionized its revolutions. The blitz technique has grown up over a long period.

Cattleman Juan Vicente Gomez, who took over in 1907 while President Cipriano Castro was visiting in Europe, put an end to internecine strife endlessly prolonged by ancient, die-hard, hill-fighting tactics.

He controlled the capital, Caracas, from Maracay, 70 miles distant, by garrisoning Maracay with trusted Andino troops and fortifying it with concentrated artillery. When Gomez's death in 1935 occasioned another scramble for power, Gen Eleazar Lopez Contreras took over the dominating stronghold of Maracay and he became boss.

Tamed Down Some

During the presidencies of Lopez, Contreras and recently deposed Isaias Medina Angarita, the art of warfare became more refined.

During World War II Venezuela acquired an excellent air force, instructed through the use of U. S. trainer planes.

Seven such planes arrived over Caracas from Maracay the morning of Oct 18. Although the aged, Vultee trainers lacked armament, their pilots executed long series of zooming dives over the barracks of Medina supporters, changing the pitch of the propellers to make the loudest noise possible.

Finally, two bombs were dropped from the cockpit of one of the planes. One missile reportedly was a 100-pound training bomb loaded with sand and a small amount of powder in its nose. The other was a French 20-pound fragmentation bomb. Both missed the barracks.

Got Results

The "bombing," however, was effective. Soldiers streamed from the barracks, abandoning their arms—which were promptly grabbed by the populace. Even the revolutionaries were surprised by the success of their "air force."

Similar "dive-bombing" without bombs was carried out by the fliers over police headquarters and other strong points of loyal resistance the same day. The planes flew low over the resisting groups, dropping hand grenades or 20-pound fragmentation bombs. Not more than 20 such attacks were made.

The next day civilian opposition entrenched itself in a chapel on Calvary Hill and began sniping at Miraflores Palace, held by the insurgents. Two planes from Maracay dropped three bombs near the chapel. One was the air force's "Sunday punch," the only fully-loaded 100-pounder dropped, the others 20-pound fragmentation missiles. Resistance on the hill faded out.

Snipers Conquered

There was considerable sniping in the streets of Caracas until that afternoon, when rebel armored cars went into action. The later arrival from Maracay of three tanks discouraged all but a few snipers, who apparently were liquidated soon afterward.

The threat of the tank force and air bombardment influenced Gen. Jurado, governor of the western state of Falcon, to give up the fight. Other Andean chieftains were similarly influenced by the "revolutionary" warfare, by which the attackers, with motorized ground equipment and planes could reach any opposition force.

The word kosher means "fit" or "proper" and is derived from the book of Esther in the Bible.

HALLOWEEN, 1945

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Oct. 31, 1935. Cyre Bennett, 75, of Marion was cleared of the four-year old murder of his brother, James F. Bennett, by the confession of two Marion men. Police obtained confessions from Grover Braden and Othal Watkins that they had slain Bennett on the night of Dec. 12, 1931, in an attempted holdup. For four years Cyre Bennett had been committed to the Lima State hospital for the criminally insane, accused of the crime, which he admitted at the time of the original police investigation.

A shower given at Ringers Inn by women employes of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. honored Miss Lucille Schindler, who was to marry Sheldon Lester of Coshocton Nov. 24.

Mrs. W. N. Harder reviewed a paper, "What Christ Means to Me," by Sir Wilfred Grenfell, at a meeting of the Guild at First Presbyterian church.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Oct. 31, 1925. Will Rogers in his weekly news letter told of his trip through Ohio to Cleveland and Columbus. He wrote: "At Columbus the police met me and escorted me to the hotel, ten mounted men. I think they just wanted to show me their horses, and I don't blame them."

Major O. M. Baldinger, secretary of the Harding Memorial association, returned from a month's visit in the east.

The Quiver carnival was staged at Harding High school by the journalism class with a program featuring Halloween. The carnival netted $155.

Miss Grace Morrison entertained with a Halloween party at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Likins of North State street.

The City Union of King's Daughters netted $585 on its annual tag day.

Harding High school gridders defeated Bucyrus at the fairgrounds field, 14 to 6. Marion's touchdowns were scored by Cunningham and McElroy. Norris scored for Bucyrus.

War and Marriage

"If only the irresponsible, hysterical and racketeering marriages were affected by the corroding influences of war, nothing would be lost. But war also plays havoc with decent marriages, even those of long standing. Separation is not good for families. New experiences create different individuals, and in becoming different they sometimes draw apart. Couples separated for years are apt to look at each other like strangers when they meet again at last—finding it hard to speak and harder still to understand each other."—Dr. Samuel Tenenbaum in the American Mercury.

Television Plan

Looking to the time when television programs will be able to reach into homes across the ocean, William J. Haley, director-general of the British Broadcasting Company, proposed that an international agreement be reached upon the bands of frequencies to be allocated to television and upon common television standards.

The Army-Navy "War"

By Jerry Kom

WASHINGTON—The war appears to have developed the habit of aggression in both the U. S. Army and the U. S. Navy.

With war's end they are now battling each other—like gentlemen, of course, but like two-fisted gentlemen—over the issue of consolidating the two services under a single department.

Feeling over this question has given rise to some of the strangest posturing seen in this capital in years. The generals are wooing the admirals and the admirals don't like it.

The sailors are afraid they would lose their identity in a reshuffle, for the Army is numerically superior.

Since the plan was first proposed, with Army backing, the Navy—always proud of its ability in a fight—has been sniping at it to discredit the project before Congress and the people.

Navy Losing Ground

Present indications are that the naval supporters have been losing ground in recent weeks and may soon be forced to drop their harrying tactics and bring their big guns into play.

If they hope to stave off the unification plan, they will have to move fast, because a bill for consolidation is already under consideration in the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

To date, every important general of the U. S Army—Marshall, Eisenhower, Arnold and MacArthur among them—has backed the project. Such weight cannot be lightly set aside by Navy men.

The effect of this massive pressure on the legislature has been gradual, but pronounced. A reporter who canvassed the Senate recently for opinion on the Army-Navy merger wrote that he had been unable to discover a single voice in opposition to the plan, although advocates were plentiful.

Four Reasons Given

The Army, which has occasionally shown, itself as adept with words as with artillery, has given Congress four telling reasons for adopting the merger:

1. The atomic bomb and its development, as well as the development of defenses against it, could best be handled by a unified command.

2. Scientific research and experiment would be aided by unified sponsorship and a free exchange of ideas.

3. Air power, now in a somewhat subsidiary position in both the Army and the Navy, would be raised to the status it deserves.

4. Coordination of air, sea and land forces has been demonstrated to be a necessity in global warfare. Where it was missing, the Army says, we came close to complete failure of operations (Pearl Harbor is cited as an example).

Author Is Hill

The consolidation bill was proposed by Sen Lister Hill, Alabama Democrat, and provides for a department of armed forces under a civilian secretary, aided by under secretaries for Army, Navy and Air.

Some opposition to this plan has developed in the Military Affairs Committee. Acting Chairman Edwin C. Johnston (D-Colo.) has made a counter-proposal which would authorize a department of military security with six branches: Air Corps, Army, Navy, Procurement, Military Intelligence and Military Science.

Sen. David I. Walsh (D-Mass.) has been a lone voice, in his capacity as chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee, in opposing the departmental change. Walsh has suggested a national defense council consisting of the secretaries of War, State and Navy, with the President presiding.

Whatever form the bill finally takes, the struggle over consolidation may be the last engagement in a long fight between Army and Navy. It is for Congress to decide.

Boy Likes Police

The Detroit police department has vindicated the faith of a young boy.

Mrs. Monty Roskosky, of Manistee, wrote the department that while her son was in a hospital for a serious operation, the family pet, an aged cocker spaniel, had to be destroyed.

When the boy came home, his heartbreak over the loss of the dog was so great that his recovery was retarded.

"I've always told my son policemen were his friends," the mother wrote. "He gets so lonesome, I wonder if you could help us find another dog."

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Letters from the Homefront to a GI No. II

DEAR SON:

Well, as I said in my last letter, I under peace in America seems pretty much orgea... However, things are a little better strikes, walkouts and riots and general turbances have tailed off a little and the fighting has not increased any. The general ture remains pretty warlike, though, and had better not get off the transport in Am with the idea everything is quiet and or like it was in Tokyo.

* * *

Quite a few arbitration boards surrend unconditionally last week, which eased pressure in the homefront combat zones complicates the situation as the country has about run out of arbiters anyhow.

The "Won't You Adopt an Employer?" c has been a good thing for the industrialists were being blitzed all around and were in a bad way. Your Mom and me adopted another one making three for us. He was head of a big air company that was trying to reconvert from autos, and he is a pathetic sight, due to the tear and tear. I never saw a more pitiful pea except the manager of a big airplane plant had the task of getting back to making tackle, bicycle wheels and bridge prizes.

* * *

One of the first problems you will face when you get home is how long to hold onto a dollar. Whether it is worth holding worries me. It now takes ten dollars to do one dollar used to do. I took your Mom dinner last night and it set me back about it cost us for food the whole first year married life.

* * *

Life in the streets of America is pretty dangerous, due to the fact so many people are running around in cars that have most of the important parts missing. Your Mom and me used to go out a lot, but since peace came and all those old boilers roared back onto the streets again we stay in most of the time. It we go out we carry a white flag.

* * *

But we are doing pretty well under the conditions, so do not worry too much. Your Uncle Gideon, who was given up as lost in a strike Hollywood, has turned up in a base hospital and they think he will get well. He got a citation.

Well, this will have to be all now as your Mom has the radio on and there are two or three forums debating peacetime questions, such as "Will the Atomic Bomb Wipe Out America?" "Who is Right, Capital or Labor?" "What Can We Do to Stop Ruinous Inflation?" and "Is There a Way Out of Peacetime Troubles?" They distract me. I will write again soon.

Love,
DAD.

Plea for the P. C. C.'s

By Truman Twitt

As a veteran of the civilian defense that was never needed in the late war, it strikes us that the master minds now getting into a heated argument about military training have missed the point.

Or if they haven't missed the point, they have failed to be honest about what they know. The one thing everybody should have learned from this war is that no one is a noncombatant any more.

To be prepared for another full-dress challenge to the right to survive, the United States needs so much more than a year's training for its young men that to propose that and nothing more is like planning to fight fire with a medicine dropper.

The Europeans and Asiatics who had the ringside seats for the late war know from experience that no amount of military training could have saved them from what they got, which was high explosives dropped down the chimneys of their own homes.

In our country for a hysterical interval we were getting ready to deal with the same thing if it came. Fortunately, it didn't. As every person who gave civilian defense a moment's attention knows, we were about as well prepared to deal with modern warfare if it reached us as the Japanese were prepared for the atomic age.

Defense in the future is only incidentally a matter of training our young men to do or die. That will be essential, but along with it a nation that wants to survive will need to be prepared to dig in, cover up, take shelter, keep order, and deal with more grim civil emergencies in a few days than civilians now are prepared to deal with in a lifetime.

If it happens, it's going to take a couple of times more preparation than was represented in the late war by a lot of befuddled civilians dashing hither and thither in sheet iron helmets and oil cloth armbands. It's going to take the most elaborate preparations imaginable.

The United States was a fifth rate military power when war began, but as far as civilian preparations for fighting a total war were concerned we weren't even in the league. It may not be tactful to mention it now, but the chief error of defense is always to get ready for the last war in time to fight the next one—and then we go again.

While we are soberly pondering the matter of our common survival if the wolves gang up again, we'd better keep sight of the certainty the wolves will use global rockets, kamikaze bombers and atomic bombs and will try to put out the flame of our national life where it burns brightest—in the population centers where we must manufacture the rockets and bombers that will be fired back at enemy civilians. Train the kids—they deserve a better chance to survive the battle than they've had in the last two wars—but don't overlook us Poor Confused Civilians.

COUNTY BUYS NEW HEAVY DUTY GRADER

Huber Machine Will Be On Display Thursday.

Walter W Johnson, county engineer, today announced delivery of a new heavy duty road grader and maintainer, purchased by the county commissioners from the Galion Iron Works & Manufacturing Co

The new tandem drive grader is powered by a 68½ HP diesel engine and has a 12-foot cutting blade. This large machine which embodies a combination of all the latest improvements in road building equipment, combined with the small tractor type Huber maintainer purchased recently, an overhauled 1937 regular Huber maintainer, and a 1942 pull type Galion Gledhill road shaper will complete the county's modernized road grading machinery

During the war two old maintainers were sold and the commissioners realized a $1,000 trade in allowance for a 1933 Huber on the new machine which sells for $6870. For an additional $495 the new maintainer was equipped with a V type snow-plow which adds much to the county's snow fighting facilities.

Mr Johnson explained that since the Huber Co has discontinued the heavy maintainer line, this out of town purchase does not conflict with any local product
